32,000,000 New Babies Why Threaten? Prepare 66 for One If Dead, They Died Well Income Tax, Please

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1934, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.

What would you call "woman's most important task and accomplishment in 1934?" Mr. Mayes asked that question. He is editor of Pictorial Review, an important magazine for women, circulating two million copies a month, recently purchased by William Randolph Hearst. This writer's answer to the question appears in the Pictorial Review for January, just published, first number under W. R. Hearst's ownership.

This individual tells Editor Mayes that the most important work done by women in 1934, or any other year, is creating the human race.

In 1934, the women of the world produced more than THIRTY-TWO MILLION brand new babies.

If you have ever seen one baby born, you know what it means to produce thirty-two millions of them.

---

Why talk about other accomplishments of women? The ruler of the universe created two human beings, man and woman, then "RESTED."

Woman creates her family and then goes to work, taking care of it.

The champion woman of 1934 is Mrs. Dionne, who had five little girls all at once, but that is too many.

All that men do really is done by the mothers that create the men.

In the latest Pictorial Review for January women will be interested particularly in Mary Roberts Rhinehart's article about the sixteen most important women of 1934.

An INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE dispatch from London says:

"The United States today bluntly warned Japan that its insistence upon naval parity with American and British fleets threatens world peace and might precipitate a naval race."

Why, in Heaven's name, a NAVAL race? Doesn't the United States yet know that battleships will be only foolish targets for airplanes in another war?

What use is there in warning Japan or anybody else? Why not BE PREPARED, and say nothing?

Again, the United States' attention is called to the fact that there is no more talk of war between Japan and Russia. Russia has nine hundred powerful planes, capable of carrying enough bombs and gas to destroy every industrial plant in Japan and poison most of the employes. This Russian air fleet is at Vladivostock, six hours' easy flight from Tokio.

Also at Vladivostock in her new naval base, Russia has assembled a great fleet of powerful submarines of the latest type, only 450 miles from Japan's coast.

There is more genuine peace for Russia in that collection of airplanes and submarines than in all the talking that our diplomats could do in 100 years.

One Russian, Kirov, important in the government, close friend of Stalin, was assassinated. Within 24 hours 77 had ben accused, and within one day 66, including one woman, were executed for complicity in the murder.

Following a custom, once universal, all property of the dead was confiscated by the government.

Many more executions are expected, the accused not allowed to have lawyers, government employing no prosecutors, judges questioning, deciding, sentencing.

Fear has long been the rul-

BRAVES FIELD LICENSE IS PETITIONED

An application for a dog racing license for Braves Field was received today by the new State Racing Commission in its temporary headquarters in the State House, from the Boston National League Baseball Club.

The application was signed by Emil Fuchs, president of the club, and was received shortly after the committee had assumed its new duties.

If the license is granted, the Braves will move to Fenway Park, to share it with the Red Sox. Alterations necessary for dog racing would prevent baseball at Braves Field.

First application came from the Berkshire Hunt and Country Club at Lenox and was signed, for the club, by James W. Mowatt, one of the officials.

All three members of the commission confirmed yesterday—General Charles H. Cole, Charles F. Connors of Brighton and William H. Ensign of Westfield—were present at today's meeting.

Application for a charter to hold real estate, operate horse and dog tracks and athletic sports of all kinds, to own kennels and stables, operate hotels and restaurants and foodshops was filed today with Commissioner of Corporations Henry F. Long.

The main office of the proposed corporation is given as 684 State street, Boston.

The three incorporators are George H. Prescott of Reading, president; John H. Farnum of Reading, and Frank A. Pierce, Concord, clerk. All three are directors of the organization.

Catholic Organ Is Confiscated

Vienna, Dec. 7 (AP)—The official organ of the Catholic Storm Troops, Sturm Ueber Oesterreich, was confiscated today for disobeying a government order, forbidding publication of anything referring to German rearmament or statements hostile to Germany in connection with the Saar Plebiscite.

Haley Will Captain Harvard

Bob Haley of Winthrop, regular quarterback for two years, was today unanimously elected captain of the Harvard football team for the 1935 season.

The vote simmered down to Haley and Shaun Kelly, varsity end, the only juniors who have won two football letters.

The former Worcester Academy star is the first backfield man in three years to be honored with the Crimson leadership. He succeeds Herman Gundlach, a guard.

Haley started the Yale games both this year and last as quarterback, a position he took over permanently when Danny Wells was shifted from quarter to halfback last season.

NELSON WIDOW SENT TO JAIL

By Associated Press

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7—Ilelen Gillis, 22, widow of George "Baby Face" Nelson and mother of the slain gangster's two children, stood silent in federal court today and heard Judge Patrick T. Stone commit her to Alderson, W. Va., prison for one year and a day.

She will be taken to Alderson sometime today to start serving the sentences imposed on her last spring on the technical charge of harboring members of the John Dillinger gang.

SICK CHILDREN SAVED AT FIRE

Three children were led to safety by their mother today during a fire in Norfolk Downs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nestor were just finishing lunch at their home, 47 Glover avenue, when a son, Francis, 5, rushed in and said windows at the front of the house.

Running upstairs, Mrs. Nestor seized Patricia, 3 years old, and George, 18 months, and carried them to the home of a neighbor, Marie, 9, holding on to the mother's skirt. All three children had been ill in bed with the grip.

4 Billions More for Aid, Roosevelt Plan

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 7—President Roosevelt, glowing with good health after his sojourn in the South, worked today on a unified recovery effort for which, informed sources say, he may ask Congress to appropriate at least four thousand million dollars.

There are two distinctive features to this program, as outlined by persons closely in touch with developments:

1—It would aim to provide work for millions now drawing direct relief funds.

2—The government would seek to co-ordinate its spending into one broad program, in which the money spent would serve not only to relieve present needs, but advance Mr. Roosevelt's long-term plans for a more abundant life.

Some advisers foresaw a central fund, with a minimum of four thousand million dollars, from which money would be shared out to carefully chosen projects. A proposal to put one central agency in charge of the fund has been con-

Geneva, Dec. 7—Edward Benes, Czechoslovakian foreign minister, warned the League of Nations Council today that if anyone strikes a blow at the unity of the little entente—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania—war will result.

Dr. Benes declared that under a treaty between Soviet Russia and The Little Entente, that country would become an aggressor which should give support to armed bands or which should refrain from depriving such bands of protection.

He further charged a general conspiracy against the territorial

LIQUOR TRUCK, DRIVER SEIZED

A shipment of liquor and miscellaneous merchandise valued at $5000 and a 7½ ton truck were hijacked today on the Boston-Providence highway four armed men, who kidnaped the driver.

Robert Taylor of North Attleboro, driver of the truck, reported to Dedham police he was forced at gunpoint to leave his truck and ordered into the rear seat of a sedan where he was covered with a blanket and the truck was driven away.

Taylor told police he was driven around three hours, then freed.

GRID STAR IN SPEER PROBE

By JOHN H. NOONAN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Greenfield, Dec. 7—One of the most important witnesses yet to be heard in the inquest into the murder of Dr. Elliott Speer, came to the courthouse here today in the person of Albert D. LaRue, 18, a Melrose sophomore at Mt. Hermont School.

LaRue was warned not to disclose his testimony and he declined to talk to reporters. It was learned, however, that the story he gave authorities was a completing link in the chain of circumstantial evidence they are trying to forge about the suspect in the Speer slaying.

For the first time since the inquest started, Colonel Paul G. Kirk, head of the state police, arrived here today and was admitted to the grand jury room to listen to the witnesses.

LaRue, it was understood, told of having seen this suspect near the latter's own home in a dark sedan

POSSE JOINS TROOPERS IN SEARCH FOR SURGEON

On information from Dr. Bigelow's father, police prepared this afternoon to drag the Sudbury river in Framingham.

The father said he had taken Dr. Bigelow as a boy to a point on the river where an old doctor was drowned, and the son frequently alluded to this, when he talked of his boyhood. The father said he found an association of ideas might lead Dr. Bigelow to death in the river.

New clues resulting from an intensive search by police and the Boston Evening American definitely indicate that the missing Dr. George H. Bigelow, head of Massachusetts General Hospital, is still alive and aimlessly wandering, a victim of amnesia.

Several clues of a positive nature place him as wandering in the Framingham woodland region of his boyhood through all the four days he has been missing and up to 6:55 o'clock this morning.

Others indicate that he might have quit Framingham woods this morning and returned to Boston, Mrs. Catherine Santoris, 1163 Boylston street, Fenway, declared she believed she saw him in the Fenway at 8:40 a. m. today.

The search, being pressed late today by about 700 persons, including state troopers, Framingham police, farm hands and students from the exclusive St. Marks School at Southboro and the Framingham High school, centered in a wooded area about three miles in length between the Fayville reservoir and Dudley road, Framingham, at the Worcester turnpike.

integrity of the new states born of the World War.

Benes's startling allegation came during heated discussion of Yugoslav charges that the assassination of King Alexander at Marseille, October 9, was plotted in Hungary.

CHARGE AMERICAN PLOT

To this Hungary, through her representative, Tibor Eckhardt, countered with the assertion that Croats meeting in America passed the death sentence on Alexander.

A sensation was created by Benes speech, in the course of which he declared "attempts similar to the Marseille crime were organized against Slovakia on the northern Hungarian frontier."

Criticising Hungarian authorities for giving asylum to alleged terrorists, Benes said the forces which permit organization of gangs of terrorists seek to detach Croatia from Yugoslavia and Slovakia from Czechoslavakia.

"They seek to strike a blow at the historical development of Danubian Europe," he asserted.

"RIGHT TO DEFEND"

Just before Benes spoke Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish delegate, had proposed an agreement concerning terrorists to reduce the possibilities of assassinations, and Benes told the league council:

"If such a treaty existed today between the little entente and Hungary, the terrorist acts of which Yugoslavia was a victim would make Hungary an aggressor and the little entente would have the right to defend themselves by their armed forces."

Earlier, Bogoljub Yevtich, foreign minister of Yugoslavia, denounced the Hungarian government as responsible in connection with King Alexander's assassination.

Yevtich summed up what he called a chain of overwhelming evidence against Hungarian authority and made the following charges:

1—During the last six years, 20 cases of terrorist crimes have been perpetrated in Yugoslav territory;

2—All these crimes occurred near the Hungarian frontier;

3—Sentences passed by Yugoslav courts prove that all these crimes attempted were perpetrated by terrorists from Hungary with arms and explosives;

4—The evidence of terrorists proved they received systematic training in special Hungarian camps;

5—The investigation by foreign police established that three criminals were chosen in Hungarian territory to participate in the attempt upon Alexander and that they left Hungary freely with Hungarian passports;

Tibor Eckhardt, the Hungarian delegate to the League of Nations, made an immediate reply in the council, protesting that all the accusations were calculated to throw the responsibility for the crime on the shoulders of Hungary, describing them as "a campaign of libel" and not designed to discover the conspirators.

Eckhardt said that Hungary could have resorted to reprisals but she preferred to allow the League to establish the justice of the case. He protested the expulsions of Hungarians from Yugoslavia as a measure of unjust reprisals.

Hungary Prepares for Slav Invasion

Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.

Szeged, Hungary, Dec. 7—After intermittent forays across the frontier into Hungary this morning, Serbian troops attached to the Yugoslav army retired, temporarily relieving a highly dangerous situation.

As the forces remain only a short distance from the frontier, however, their presence is a source of great anxiety to Hungary.

The official Hungarian news agency said the "Chetniks," an organization of armed men, made midnight raids on evacuated Hungarian homes in Yugoslavia, carrying off valuables.

A pogrom, agency said, was announced by the Chetniks to be impending against Hungarians.

The Hungarian News Agency declared the Yugoslav authorities in their wholesale deportations did not spare any one by reason of age, sex or illness.

"ROUTED BY BAYONETS"

"At the railroad terminl on the front point," said the agency, "mothers were looking for lost children and lost children were looking for mothers.

"The Yugoslav police showed a complete lack of mercy to those expelled. The refugees were forced at points of bayonets to leave their homes, often in the thick of night, often without any chance to take anything with them and were then marched under guard to the railroad stations. They did not even spare a 70-year-old man with an insane wife.

"Among the refugees were 80 babies. One thousand Hungarians have been expelled from the Baranya district, 1500 from Novisad and 1300 from Subotica."

CHALLENGE TO FIGHT

The Serb detachment of Yugoslav soldiers entered this country only three miles from here early this morning and challenged a Hungarian border force to fight.

Only strong disciplinary action by Hungarian officers, they reported, prevented a battle.

The situation was tense and grave fears were expressed by authorities. Szeged officials said they did not believe an attack on the city was contemplated, but if it came the city was prepared. Streets were crowded with Hungarian soldiers.

The invasion followed Yugoslavia's expulsion of thousands of Hunarians, who continued to come across the border today. The situation rose from the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marseille October 9.

BORDER TOWNS IN TURMOIL

Szeged and nearby towns were filled to overflowing with weary and frightened refugees. Increasing the fear was the knowledge that Yugoslav forces are far superior to Hungarian troops along the frontier.

Many of the refugees were so ill they required hospital treatment.

Four hundred were added last night to the 1308 who had arrived yesterday and the preceding night. Another refugee train was expected. The emigres told stories of mistreatment at the hands of Yugoslavs.

Heavy guards of police were kept last night about the schools where the refugees slept.

Among those expelled from Yugoslavia were a 4-year-old boy with a broken leg and a woman with twins born four days ago. Twelve of the refugees here were 70 or older.

SCHOOL CHILDREN EXILED

Scenes reminiscent of the expulsion of aliens from enemy countries during the World War were enacted, as thousands of additional Hungarians came over the border.

Dozens of school children, still carrying their text books, said Yugoslav police had taken them from classrooms for immediate deportation without their parents. Other children without guardians carried large paper labels of identification.

Hungarian Cabinet Meets to Face Crisis

By Associated Press

Budapest, Dec. 7—An alarmed cabinet met in special session today to study the critical state of Yugoslav-Hungarian relations, embittered by Yugoslavia's deportation of thousands of Hungarians.

Officials viewed the situation with fresh concern as they learned a detachment of regular Serb troops crossed the border near Szeged.

Where War Danger Grows

In the Balkans, traditional "Danger Spot of Europe" troops are marching today because of Yugoslavia's action in deporting 27,000 Hungarians from within its borders. Trouble centers near the point where Hungary, Yugoslavia and Rumania meet. At Subotica, northernmost city in that part of Yugoslavia, the 27,000 Hungarians are rounded up for deportation. Across the line is the Hungarian city of Szeged, where an attack is awaited hourly as Serbian troops of the Yugoslavian army have already crossed the frontier. Hungary is in a bad strategic position, being practically surrounded by the Little Entente of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia. All Europe trembles at the danger of war.

U. S. OFFERS AID TO END LONG CHACO WAR

By Associated Press

Washington, December 7—As a "good neighbor" the United States accepted today the role of peacemaker in co-operation with other American republics, in an attempt to end the long jangle war between Bolivia and Paraguay.

With the belligerents still locked in a desperate struggle in the Gran Chaco, Secretary of State Hull informed the League of Nations this government would co-operate in the peace plan by assuming two responsibilities:

1—Name an American member to the neutral supervisory commission, which will try to end the war quickly.

2—Name American delegates to a Pan-American peace conference at Buenos Aires, designed to negotiate a lasting settlement of the 50-year-old border dispute and insure future peace in South America.

Since the United States is not a member of the league, Hull declined to become involved in any league or European entanglement by collaborating with the league's Chaco advisory commission at Geneva. This country would, he said, maintain "informal contact" with this commission for purposes of information.

His exposition of the cooperative measures this country is willing to undertake was set forth in a note to the secretary-general of the league. It replied to an invitation to collaborate in a three-fold plan for peace.

Since the neutral supervisory commission "will be composed of representatives of American states meeting on American soil for the specific purpose of supervising and facilitating the execution of measures relating to the cessation of hostilities," Hull informed the league, the United States would be "happy to cooperate" by appointing a member.

Japan Defies U. S. Warning of Navy Building Race

By International News Service

Tokio, Dec. 7—Japan today defiantly answered a statement by U. S. Ambassador Norman H. Davis in London that termination of the Washington treaty would result in a costly naval building race.

The privy council appointed a committee of nine to draft a note to all signatories of the Washington treaty. The note will announce Japan's intention of annuling the agreement.

Britain Offers to Reduce Size of Ships

London, Dec. 7 (INS)—Great Britain is ready to agree to drastic reductions in the size of capital ships and aircraft carriers as well as other disarmament measures, it was officially stated today.

"This government," the statement said, "is prepared to accept reductions in the limit in sizes of vessels in capital ships, aircraft carriers and cruisers as much as 30 per cent."

The British government, it was said, also would favor reduction of gun calibres.

THREATS BARED; MANY PAY TO SILENCE GANG

A youth living in the vicinity of Prides Crossing, and another somewhat older in Manchester, may be questioned in connection with their knowledge of telephone calls to the summer home of Randolph H. Grew, threatening the kidnaping of his 17-year-old adopted daughter, Eugenie, it was learned today.

Clarence D. McKeah, chief of the New England Bureau of the Department of Justice, was in conference with subordinates in his office on the 10th floor of the Federal building today.

It is understood the conference concerned reports of the investigation of telephone calls which were made in and about Manchester at about the time the alleged kidnap threats were made over the phone to the Grew summer home.

It was disclosed that the Department of Justice agents had uncovered reports of nearly a score of similar cases along the wealthy North shore colonies.

In some of these instances, it was said, persons have actually paid over sums of money and then kept silent rather than jeopardize themselves and their families by breaking the terms made with the kidnap extortionists.

One United States officer in a high position hinted that there were large numbers of cases on which the federal agents were working which were blanketed in deepest secrecy.

He said that in most cases the agents received their orders directly from Washington.

Wonder Boy Likes Popeye; Says Publicity 'Silly'

PARENTS CLAIM "HE WAS JUST BORN SMART"

By International News Service

New York, Dec. 7—Arthur Greenwood, a curly haired 7-year-old boy, who has been identified as the mystery "wonder child" whose intelligence quotient is 25 points higher than Albert Einstein's, was interviewed today.

Arthur looked up at his interviewer and said:

"I cannot account for the desire on the part of the nation's press to publicize what they refer to as my intellectual feats."

The repertorial pencil raced while Albert continued:

"As for myself, I consider it utterly silly, if not in bad taste, for a person to enjoy seeing his name bandied about in the public print."

Arthur's I. Q. is 230. Most successful persons get along quite nicely with about 100. He said:

"The only reason I have consented to be interviewed is to clear up conflicting stories which in the past few days have appeared about me in the press.

"That is the only reason. Of course, I can understand there are exceptions about publicity. As, for instance, in the case of notable achievements. But I have done nothing."

Arthur's identity was revealed when conflicting educational interests got into an argument as to who had smartened him up.

His existence was announced by the Ethical Culture school of Brooklyn as a prize example of their products. Then the president of the Parent Teachers' Association of P. S. 217, where Arthur passed the first and second grades without difficulty, identified him. P. S. 217 should get some credit, she said.

'Born Smart'

His parents modestly interjected that Arthur was just born smart. At three years of age he could speak French as well as English fluently. His talents seem to lean towards music and mathematics, like the great Einstein. In his spare time he devised a number alphabet with which he liked to write. He also devised a number method of writing music to simplify the diatonic scale of his fellow pupils.

While his own reading leans to science, he is the favorite story teller among his school companions. And he likes the colored comics on Sunday.

His favorite character is Popeye.

Arthur is not a forced intellectual plant. He is being held, kept under wraps, so to speak. His associations all are with children of his own age, except for his parents. The greatest care is being exercised so that he may grow up to be a normal person.

SHOWGIRL AIDS MOTHER OF MRS. VANDERBILT

By International News Service

New York, Dec. 7—A brand new mystery in the many-faced Vanderbilt custody case came to the fore today, when it was reported Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, mother of Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, has been living for some time on the bounty of the wife of a Pittsburgh millionaire.

During the custody hearings it had been assumed Mrs. Morgan's only means of support was the allowance given her by her daughters, Lady Furness and Mrs. Vanderbilt. This income was shut off with a snap after Mrs. Morgan gave damaging testimony against Mrs. Vanderbilt.

It was Mrs. Vanderbilt herself who disclosed that a former show girl acquaintance of Reginald Vanderbilt had assured Mrs. Morgan of enough money to live on the rest of her life.

Known on the stage as Jaqueline Archer, the showgirl married Glenn Stewart, Pittsburgh millionaire, and is now living in the Stewart mansion at Easton, Md.

"It now appears that Mrs. Morgan was not making so supreme a sacrifice when she came to court and spoke against me, as she would have let everyone believe," Mrs. Vanderbilt said.

$20 TIP Lady Cut HER KIN

OVER MILLION IS GIVEN FRIENDS

COUSINS FAIL TO BREAK WILL OF MRS. CARTER

Miss Nellie Parney Carter, 79, who gave a $20 tip each night at dinner in local hotels, and left more than a million dollars in bequests to six persons not related to her, had an estate valued at $2,508,197.93 when she died.

The inventory, filed in Suffolk Probate Court, showed blocks of oil stocks valued at nearly $1,500,000, as well as other "blue chip" securities.

The will was contested by five cousins, each of whom was bequeathed $5000, but was upheld in court.

The principal legatees were Arthur H. Wellman, her attorney, who was left $500,000; his son, Sargent Welman, $150,000; their secretary, Miss Mary MacFarlane, $150,000; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Leland, $200,000 each, and Lieutenant James Trimble Brown, U. S. A., $100,000.

HEAD OF STATE POLICE BACKS HEARST PLAN

Extension of the United States secret service to wage war on crime, as proposed by William Randolph Hearst, was endorsed today by Colonel Paul G. Kirk, commissioner of public safety and head of the state police.

Colonel Kirk will go to Washington Sunday to attend the opening, on Monday, of the national crime conference of governors and their representatives called by United States Attorney General Homer D. Cummings.

This conference will be urged to declare itself in favor of federal law enforcement to pave the way for Congressional enactment of necessary laws.

READY TO AID

Colonel Kirk said:

"The Massachusetts state police are fully prepared to co-operate with the federal department of justice or any other agency that may be set up to eliminate crime.

"I believe a great deal of good can be accomplished at Washington to effect a closer relationship between the federal and state officers.

"For a nation-wide drive against criminal activities, the state and federal law enforcement agencies should work in closest harmony."

KEEP INDIVIDUALITY

Although he approves of the proposal to enlarge the federal crime-combating force, Colonel Kirk believes that the state police should work in direct co-operation with it, rather than as an accessory to it, maintaining their individuality and own responsibility to the state.

Of the Washington conference, Colonel Kirk said:

"An opportunity will be given to exchange ideas on improved methods in the apprehension of criminals and result in a better co-ordination of the enforcement agencies.

"This will undoubtedly mean a bearing down on areas where criminals are harbored and crime condoned."

sidered but, like other details, Mr. Roosevelt's attitude on this has not been disclosed.

PLANS AIR TALK

Such varied things as relief, land and water conservation, public works, roads, subsistence homesteads, slum clearance and many other plans have been under discussion by high officials, but the place of any of these in the program may not become known definitely before Congress opens. An inkling may, however, be obtained from a radio speech the President will make to the nation within a week or so.

Though Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, and Secretary Ickes, the public works chief, were reported to have carried plans, calling for vast expenditures to the President at Warm Springs, each was silent today as to how much the government would spend.

Hopkins did say, however, that about 4,000,000 employable persons are on relief. He also expressed the opinion that 1,000,000 families could be set up in rural farming and industrial communities without expense to the government.

Whether or not there shall be more banking legislation is another subject to the fore here.

FLETCHER'S STAND

Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee, who has been circularizing bankers and economists to see what they think, disclosed that many of them are against any drastic changes in the banking laws now.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, meanwhile, is going ahead with purchases to increase the capital of banks and lending to closed banks in its campaign to increase the strength of the financial structure.

It will spend a half million dollars more for this purpose, bringing total expenditures to about $3,000,000,000.

New Deal Power Repeal Demanded

Declaring that fear, engendered by the "monetary experiments" of the Roosevelt administration, was the prime factor in retarding recovery, Dr. Edwin W. Kemmerer, director of international finance at Princeton University, told 700 members of the Massachusetts Bankers' Association at the Copley-Plaza that the Thomas Act, giving the President power to regulate money should be repealed.

What You Eat You Are

"Feed your body to protect your health." That is the slogan at the food exhibition of the Boston Health League, now being held at the Whittier Street Health Unit. # Many Priests Transferred by Cardinal O'Connell

Rev. Neil A. Cronin, Ph.D., who was born and brought up in old St. Augustine's parish in South Boston, will return there next Wednesday as its irremovable pastor, it was disclosed today.

Cardinal O'Connell, on the eve of his 75th birthday anniversary, announced this appointment among the diocesan changes which made two curates pastors, and transferred three pastors to larger parishes to fill vacancies caused by recent deaths.

Father Cronin has served as administrator of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross for nine years. He is succeeded to this post by the Rev. William A. Dacey, who was Father Cronin's senior assistant, and has been attached to the cathedral for 20 years.

OTHER TRANSFERS S

Other changes send the Rev. Joseph H. Casey, parish priest of St. Andrew's in Billerica to become parish priest at St. Bernard's Church in West Newton. Other transfers were:

Rev. John F. Madden, parish priest of St. Peter's Church, Gloucester, to become parish priest of St. Anthony's Church, Cohasset.

Rev. Frederick F. Muldoon, parish priest of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Groton, to become parish priest of St. Andrew's parish, Billerica.

Rev. James A. Sherry, assistant in St. Mary's parish, Melrose, to become parish priest of St. Peter's Church, Gloucester.

Rev. Waldo C. Hasenfuss, assistant at St. Mary's Church, Waltham, to become parish priest of Church of the Sacred Heart, Groton.

Father Cronin succeeds the late Rev. Francis Kenney; Father Casey succeeds the late Rev. William Dwyer in West Newton, and Father Madden, who goes to Cohasset, fills the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. Joseph F. Lawless.

WAR DEATH Reunion Is Fatal To General, 77

Berlin, Dec. 6 (U8)—General Oscar Von Hutier, at 77 the honored retired commander of the German 18th army in France during the World War, went to visit his old war comrades at the National Club.

They hailed him as he entered the door and the general dropped dead from excitement.

WINIFRED BLACK LASHES SENTIMENTAL WOMEN

By Universal Service

Washington, Dec. 7—Winifred Black, probably the most beloved newspaper woman in the world, is here today for the December 10 national crime conference. She declared kidnaping had taught the country a lesson.

It is a lesson against sentimentality, against too much sympathizing with murderers and thieves and dangerous crooks. She said:

Winifred Black

"Kidnaping has brought us to our senses—and particularly women."

For women, she thinks, are the guilty party in this over-sentimentalizing. Men face the facts of life, but women don't she thinks. They sugar-coat everything, and try to delve into "why." John Doe strangled his mother. But the point is, she said yesterday, not why John Doe murdered his mother. The fact is he did it and she's dead. He's a killer for whatever reason he may give for his act.

WRITING 40 YEARS

Miss Black, as millions of newspaper readers know, has written for the Hearst newspapers for 40 years. She's 71 now and still writes every day. She's interviewed murderers and criminals by the hundreds and she confesses:

"Not one of them has been fascinating. I can't get sentimental over them, though I have felt sorry for a few. There is far too much sentimentality in the world. The law of life is that whatever you do you pay for.

"I want to get sentimental over some poor little woman who is trying to look after four or five helpless children. But I can't get sentimental over any woman who runs away with the janitor, or any of the petty pity-seekers."

BANK ROBBER EXECUTED

Eddyville, Ky., Dec. 7—Francis Glenday, handsome black haired bank robber, was executed at the state prison here early today for the slaying of Ben Keenon, cashier, in the robbery of the Stamping Ground Bank, November 28, 1932.

Smiling, Glenday walked into the execution chamber between two guards. He nodded to newspapermen, sat down in the rugged chair and observed guards working with straps that secured him to the seat.

George (Stribby) Tincher last spring paid with his life for the same crime for which Glenday was executed.

SCREEN STARS SEND AUTOGRAPHS TO AID BASKET FUND

STAGE HEADLINERS JOIN MAYFAIR BENEFIT CAST

Better and better grows the big Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund show at the Mayfair in Broadway next Sunday night, where foremost stage, screen and radio entertainers will perform that the needy may have happiness at the holiday season.

Harry Einstein, the laugh-inducing "Nick Parkyakakas" of the air, who recently signed with Eddie Cantor for a long term, and Ranny Weeks, popular radio singer, have been added to the long list of entertainers.

And in addition leading screen stars have sent their autographed photos to be sold at the party to the highest bidder.

The show, arranged by Benny Ginsburg of the Mayfair, now has a prodigious cast, including Sammy Liner and his snappy Mayfair dance band; Meta Carlyle of the Mayfair; Joe Rines of the gay manner and the Cascades, with his band and part of the Cascades floor show; Peaches Browning, who is appearing at the Gayety Theater next week; Buddy Clark, Mernis Parks, Al Burkinshaw, Barbara Belmore and Jimmy Downey of the radio, and a host of vaudeville and legitimate theater entertainers who are currently in town.

COST IS SMALL

All this, with dancing to follow the show, from midnight to 2 a. m., yet get for only $2.50 per person and while you are having your fun you will also be helping those who otherwise would have little or no happiness at Christmas time—and children who might not even have enough to eat.

You have an opportunity to purchase personally autographed photos of the following screen stars: Marion Davies, Mae West, Clark Gable, Dick Powell, Jackie Cooper, Wallace Beery, Edward G. Robinson, Paul Muni, Kay Francis, Ruby Keeler, Dolores Del Rio, Ricardo Cortez, Jean Harlow, Jeanette MacDonald, Helen Hayes, Lionel Barrymore, Robert Montgomery, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, William Powell, Claire Trevor, Spencer Tracy, Helen Twelvetrees, Pat Patterson, Norman Foster.

SMITH CLUB SHOW

The Mayfair show and dance is one big party in aid of the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund. Another will be a vaudeville show in the Municipal Building, South Boston, on the night of December 18, arranged by the Alfred E. Smith Club of South Boston.

Martin J. Quinn, president of the club, and Representative Robert V. Lee head the committee arranging this show, and many fine acts of vaudeville, as well as individual stage and radio stars, including Ranny Weeks, will take part.

So, if you have a club, a society, or a fraternity, why don't you, too, run a show or a dance or a bridge party for the benefit of the fund? You'll have a lot of fun, the guests will have entertainment—and the needy will benefit at Christmas time.

Go to it—you Goodfellows in bridge clubs, in social clubs, in neighborhood organizations and in other associations!

Do Turns for Basket Fund

For the basket fund—Barbara Belmore will do her best act to make the Sunday night show at the Mayfair a financial success. It's all for the benefit of the Boston Evening American Basket Fund. The fund that brings joy to so many people that need joy. Go up to the Mayfair. Have a big evening. After midnight you may dance. Get into the spirit of the coming Christmas season.

MANY APPEALS FOR BASKETS

Here are more appeals received by the Christmas Basket Fund Editor. Every one of these cases has been investigated and found worthy of the help of Goodfellows who wish to see that no one lacks Christmas joy.

CASE 22

My husband's work has been poor for the last two years. He only gets a couple of days a week and I have had terrible luck. My lights have been off for seven months. I have been in the hospital for 15 weeks and I'm still under the doctor's care.

There are eight of us in the family, and we all need clothes. My husband needs stocking size 11½, shoes 9½ D, underwear—large size and shirts 16½ neck. He is badly in need of all these things. I need house dresses size 34, bloomers and slips.

I have four boys who are large for their age, the oldest who is 14 needs blouses, stockings size 9½, underwear and a sweater. The other two who are 12 and nine need the same.

My little six-year-old girl is large for her age and also needs clothes badly. Dresses, stockings size 8, underwear, bloomers and shoes size 13½.

My nine-months-old baby boy has no clothes to go out in at all. He needs three-year-old size rompers, a coat, shirts and stockings.

I do hope some kind reader will see my letter and help me out at Christmas time.

For Thanksgiving all we had was boiled potatoes and bread. I have to send my boys out early in the morning to get wood to keep us warm. Even while I'm writing this I haven't a blessed thing in the house, not even milk for the baby.

This mother lives in Charlestown. Anyone who wishes to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for case No. 22.

Nick Parkyakakas

Joe Rines

CASE 23

My husband is not working and my baby is very sick. The doctor said that she needs fruit and I am not able to buy them for her. I am not well and I have to go every week to the hospital too. My baby has soft bones. She is not able to walk. So you see I come to ask for some help from you which we all will enjoy at Christmas.

This mother lives in East Boston. Anyone wishing to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for case No. 23.

CASE 24

I am asking you again this year. I am almost 14. My father is sick with cancer and my mother is worried from it all. I have two other sisters, ages 11 and 10.

I felt real bad Thanksgiving morning because everyone else seemed to be having a good time, but I've gotten over it now.

Please believe me, we could use a Christmas basket, my mother would be so glad. I wrote a letter last week to take to school to have my teacher endorse it but believe me I just could not get enough courage up to ask her.

We have no money coming in only $23.00 on every first of the month and we have to live on that a whole month, and Pa needs so many things now he is sick. He doesn't know he has cancer, he thinks he has ulcers.

Mr. Brickley of the Everett welfare knows us well, he can tell you what I say is true. They pay our rent and we live on the $23.00 a month. Please send my mother a basket, won't you?

This little girl lives in Everett. Anyone who wishes to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 24.

I am going to ask you if you will please remember me and my children, five of them, this year with a Christmas dinner.

Thanksgiving they did not have very much. They had bread, butter and an apple each. Please, sir, if you can, don't disappoint them.

There are seven of us in the family, my husband works for the city and what we get is not very much when we pay $5 a week rent and pay for the baby's milk and I got a sick little girl just home from the hospital and she needs plenty of nourishing food but I cannot get it for her. We got no electricity on in the house only one oil lamp for all the house, but if I can get a Christmas dinner for the children

JUDGE DENIES GUN TRIAL

John H. Wilson, 35, serving a term of nine to 10 years in state's prison for smuggling two loaded revolvers into Springfield jail, was denied a new trial in federal court by Judge Hugh D. McLellan.

Wilson, in a dramatic plea, said that he had been "framed," that he had not had anything to do with the revolvers, and that he had been denied his constitutional rights in being sent to state's prison "without a fair trial."

A fellow prisoner, John C. Rozee, serving a sentence of from 22 to 25 years, said in court that Wilson had not been a party to the revolver smuggling, and said the guns were smuggled to him.

Wilson filed exception to Judge McLellan's decision, and was then returned to prison.

It will not be so dull on Christmas Day.

Anyone wishing to investigate this case can do so, you will always find me home.

This mother lives in Charlestown. Anyone wishing to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for case No. 25.

AMERICANS SEE SPIRITUAL GAINS FROM DEPRESSION

By Universal Service

New York, Dec. 7—The American spirit has used the depression for its advantage rather than being defeated by it.

This is the consensus of 12 famous Americans who have appraised the effect of the five years that have passed since the stock market crash, in the January issue of Cosmopolitan.

Changes have come to stay, they grant in this symposium, but the lasting effect will be to restore appreciation for the old-fashioned American principles and pioneer values which the gilded post-war prosperity years sought to deny or forget.

Striking excerpts from a few of the writers who have given their impressions of the effect of the depression follow:

HENRY FORD—". . . "The last five years brought this country nearer to a society based on justice, opportunity and security. This is to be America's gift to the world.

"We spent the first two years wondering when 1929 was coming back. We spent the next two hoping for something that was said to be 'just around the corner' . . . We have spent the past year believing in Santa Claus.

"To say that the United States has shifted the basis of life because business becomes bad or administrations change in Washington is to ignore a constant phenomenon of American life."

M R S. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT . . . "It is more important to consider what these years of adversity have meant to the children of America, the citizens of tomorrow.

"The children of families on relief have been fed on monotonous diets . . . lacking important food elements, but bad as the effects of poor food and improper housing the loss of

"The effect of all this on the older children is bad for they are apt to learn the tricks of the individual who lives by his wits and preys on society. These children will present a great problem in the future."

FAMED '24 FOR' BOOMER DEAD

By Associated Press

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 7—Former Governor William Woodward Brandon, 66, whose booming "Alabama casts 24 votes for Oscar W. Underwood" gained him national prominence at the 1924 Democratic National Convention in New York, died here early today of a brain complication, tentatively diagnosed as a hemorrhage.

Brandon's famous shout always started the roll calls at the Democratic convention, which totaled more than 100.

Brandon was small of stature, but he had a booming voice. So well did his voice carry at the Democratic convention in New York that he received many offers ranging from positions as radio announcer to speaking tours on lyceum circuits. One offer of a position as radio announcer promised a salary of $10,000 annually.

Pittsburgh Man in Melrose Race

Ex-Alderman William M. Pierce, who resigned from the Melrose board of aldermen last April and who is now a resident of Pittsburgh, Pa., although still a legal voter in Melrose, today announced his candidacy for mayor of Melrose. He urges voters to write his name on the ballot.

"If I am elected, I'll return at once to Melrose," Pierce telephoned friends.

POLICE BEGIN PAWN DRIVE

A drive aainst pawnbrokers as receivers of stolen goods, will be started by Back Bay police Saturday when they ask warrants against the proprietors of 16 such establishments, they said.

The warrants will be asked on the strength of information gleaned from an alleged confession made by Robert J. McManus, 22, of Cabot street, Roxbury, former clerk in the mail order department of a Brookline avenue store, Back Bay.

McManus told police, they said, that he sold such merchandise as he could smuggle out to the pawnshops, and to a Back Bay restaurant owner, against whom a warrant will also be asked.

The pawnshop drive is the first such action taken by Boston police for 20 years, although they have frequently been mentioned as possible "fences" by authorities.

Dr. Bigelow Seen Wandering In Fenway by Woman Today

have visited on Monday soon after leaving his Milton home.

Two women saw him on Cochituate road, Framingham, yesterday. One who observed him has known him since boyhood. But yesterday she did not know he was missing.

A woodchopper in the brush near Big Sucker Pond, Framingham, encountered him on Wednesday. This pond is being dragged by the state police.

Three other persons saw him on Tuesday in the same vicinity.

His clothes were rumpled, his faced unshaved, he appeared weary, mumbled, acted strangely. A truck driver thinks he gave him a ride from Framingham to Boston this morning.

John Rogers, a rairyman at Waveney Farm, Framingham estate of Reginald Biard, was the one to report seeing Dr. Bigelow this morning.

Miss Sartoris, the Boston woman, placed Dr. Bigelow, in her belief, near the famous Boston medical center in the Fenway.

She said she first saw him walking along Audubon road when she was on her way to Mission Church. When she last saw him, she said he was standing at the corner of Louis Pasteur road and the Fenway.

Dr. Bigelow knows this area as he knows the back of his hand, and is well known to many there.

Miss Sartoris' description of the man checked in every detail with the description issued by police which she had not read.

She said:

"I saw Dr. Bigelow this morning on my way to Mission Church. I first saw him on Audubon road and when I last saw him he was near Huntington avenue.

"I was on my way to church and was hurrying. I saw this man, who wore a midnight blue overcoat with a velvet collar. He carried a brief case with a newspaper covering it.

His clothes were good but they were crumpled. They and the brief case first arrested my attention.

ASKED HIM HIS NAME

"He was looking around as if to see who was coming up behind him. I went right up to him face to face and looked at his eyes. They were blue.

"I said, 'Are you Dr. Bigelow?'

"He took a step back, then laughed and said, 'No.'

"I hurried away towards church and hoped to see a policeman. I ran; I was late. It's a long ways and I usually have to run to make it in time, anyway.

"He followed behind me, walking fast, past Simmons College. He was still following the same route I was when I last saw him near Louis Pasteur road, and the Fenway, near Mrs. Jack Gardner's palace. I kept looking for a policeman and finally found one and told him. He didn't seem to be interested."

WIFE NEAR COLLAPSE

His wife, however, was reported near collapse in her home at 231 Randolph avenue, Milton. Mrs. Bigelow is a sister of the wife of Leverett Saltonstall, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Waiting with her for news of the missing physician were her children, Margaret, 18, and Bradley, 13, who did not attend school today. A Milton policeman guarded the home.

The disappearance of Dr. Bigelow was made public by Colonel Pul G. Kirk, public safety commissioner, late yesterday.

Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft, of 315 Marlboro street, prominent surgeon and father of Mrs. Bigelow, said today that the police were notified as soon as Dr. Bigelow's disappearance was noted, "from the very beginning." Mrs. Bigelow notified him late Monday night.

The last definite report of the doctor having been seen was made today to the state authorities by Mrs. Susie Furber, 85, of Cochituate road, Framingham, a wooded road leading off the Worcester turnpike near Big Sucker pond.

SEEN YESTERDAY

Mrs. Furber said she saw Dr. Bigelow in Cochituate road at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

She said:

"I know George Bigelow. I have known him since he was a baby. His father was my family physician.

"My attention was attracted to him yesterday because he had no hat or overcoat. He came down the street slowly with his head down. I didn't pay any particular attention although I thought it was funny he had no coat on. I did not know he was missing and thought he was visiting his father here.

"I am positive it was Dr. Bigelow."

In substantiation of Mrs. Furber's story—if substantiation were needed—was the story told by Mrs. Frank Warren, who lives on Cochituate road near the turnpike corner. She said:

"At 1:30 yesterday afternoon my doorbell rang and I went to the door. A man was standing there well-mannered and well-spoken. I thought I knew him, but couldn't place him.

"He said to me, 'Would you please tell me who owns that garage there,' indicating an abandoned garage next to my home. I told him I did not know and directed him to inquire farther up the road.

"He had a heavy growth of beard and acted in a queer manner.

"I knew Dr. Bigelow when he was a boy here. I am sure it was he—positive after seeing his picture today."

WALKED HEAD DOWN

Another who reported the missing medical leader in the same region was Armand C. Sequion. He said:

"On Wednesday I was chopping wood in the brush near Big Sucker Pond. I saw a well-dressed man coming towards me. He walked with his head down, he appeared excited and mumbled. He was badly in need of a shave.

"He came up to me and said, 'What are you cutting wood for?'

"There have been complaints about cutting wood in that spot and I thought this was another of them. So I asked him, 'What do you care?'

"He didn't make any answer, but walked away through the woods up over Lewis Hill. My little dog that was with me at the time followed him for a distance barking at him."

Belief that his son is suffering from amnesia was expressed by Dr. George H. Bigelow, Sr., at his home in Pleasant street, Framingham, and he admitted the possibility that the missing doctor might have wandered to his boyhood haunts in Framingham during this week.

ALSO HUNTED IN GOTHAM

Despite reports placing him in Framingham yesterday and in Boston today, police extended the search to New York where already intimate friends of the doctor had begun an inquiry.

Dr. Bigelow had planned to go to New York Monday afternoon or Monday night and Mrs. Bigelow expected to go with him. He was to have telephoned her later in the day regarding the trip but never did.

A friend who met him in Framingham at 1:30 Monday afternoon reported that the doctor announced his intention of taking a bus to New York.

A check of bus lines routing through Framingham was begun.

That state police headquarters—while unaware Dr. Bigelow was missing—was informed on Monday that he was probably at the Fayville reservoir, acting strangely, was disclosed by a teletype message sent Monday afternoon to the State House by the Framingham troop barracks.

TELETYPE RECORD

This message, headed: "1:20 p. m. 12-3-34" was as follows:

"A call was received at Troop A headquarters from Mr. Robbins (James W. Robbins) foreman of the Metropolitan water works at Fayville that there was a suspicious person hanging around the dam.

"This person said that he was an inspector. He was carrying a black handbag (brief case). He was later seen without the bag, and a little later he had the bag with him. He was last seen on Pleasant street in Framingham.

"At 1:30 p. m. Patrolman Sidney (State Police) went to the dam and interviewed Mr. Robbins, who described the man as about 45 to 50, 5 feet 10, weighing 180 pounds, wearing dark clothes, very well dressed.

"Patrolman Sidney searched all roads in the vicinity of the dam and on his return to Framingham Center he was stopped by Patrolman Regan of the Framingham police, who told him he had just received a call that there was a suspicious person hanging around the dam.

"Together they returned to the scene and made a thorough search but the suspicious person was not found.

"The description received from Mr. Robbins answers' the description of Dr. Bigelow's son (the elder Dr. Bigelow living in Framingham here referred to.)"

Where Police Are Now Dragging for Dr. Bigelow

Mrs. Frank Warren, who claims she saw Dr. George H. Bigelow, missing hospital head, on Cochituate road, Framingham, at 1:30, yesterday afternoon. This point is near Worcester Turnpike.

State police aided by Framingham police are dragging Sucker pond, near Framingham, in the hunt for Dr. George H. Bigelow, head of the Massachusetts General Hospital. The photograph was made early this afternoon as police made search for footprints along the edge of the water. The dragging started shortly after this photograph was made.

Mrs. Garner Dines With First Lady

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mrs. John N. Garner, wife of the Vice-President, lunched informally with Mrs. Roosevelt today—their first intimate chat since Congress closed last spring.

Mrs. Garner, who is also the Vice-President's secretary, reported a busy summer in Uvalde, Texas—not a single day off except the one when she took her granddaughter, Genevieve Garner, back to school.

Simeon Ford Left $1,774,794 Estate

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Simeon Ford, hotel operator and widely-known after-dinner speaker who died August 30, 1933, left a net estate of $1,774,794, a transfer tax appraisal filed today showed.

The residuary estate is divided among three children, one of them, Ellsworth Ford, of Greenwich, Ct.

Firemen Fight to Save Life of Hulme

The condition of Edward Hulme, 1 Newport avenue, Medford, employe of the Boston American composing room, who is suffering from pneumonia, became so critical early this morning that it was necessary to put in an emergency call to the Medford Fire Department for an inhalator.

Several hours later Firemen Joseph H. Fore, Louis R. Pinkham and Frederick G. Warner were still taking turns administering the oxygen.

Man Held in $2000 for Beating Wife

Charged with beating his wife with a glass and a pool cue, James Keough, 44, of Eastern avenue, Revere, today was held for the grand jury in $2000 bail before Judge Samuel R. Cutler in Chelsea court. Keough's wife has just left Massachusetts General Hospital, where—for a time—it was feared she would not live. She is the mother of five.

NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST FUR ESTABLISHMENT

ERMINE VIES WITH SLACKS AT SOCIETY HORSE SHOW

Society, from the Grade A variety in toppers and ermines to hoi-polloi who put on no more lugs than turtle-neck sweaters and slacks, was well represented at last night's opening of the 110th Cavalry's Horse Show at Commonwealth Armory.

It was estimated by experts that the show's cast of four-footed thoroughbreds, which had assembled more than 5000 spectators from Boston and Long Island's horsey set, might be valued at a cool million.

Which statistical item automatically puts this unofficial successor to the brilliant pre-depression Boston Garden Horse Show into that four-star show's class.

NORFOLK HUNT WINS

Probably the most interesting event to the social registerites on the program last night, "pink-coat night," was class 55, the hunt teams, which won a blue ribbon for the Norfolk Hunt Club, John Donnelly, Leverett Saltonstall and Jack Lewis riding.

Bayard Tuckerman, Sally White and Alvin F. Sortwell, riding for the Myopia Hunt Club, came in second.

Dedham was third. Mrs. Robert B. Almy, Josiah Childs and Harbert Shaw, Cohasset was fourth, with Hugh Bancroft, Jr., John Good and Joseph Jinnell.

RIBBON TO A. BLACK

Arthur Black of Winchester, referee in bankruptcy, won the first blue of the evening in the novice saddle-horses class with his Able's Irish Rose, while Mrs. James A. Hewlett's Cameo trotted off with a second prize in the combination ponies class.

In the green-hunter's class for entries which have never won a ribbon, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Farnsworth's Sprig Leaf took a blue. In the same class, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son and Erin's Glenn came in second and third respectively.

Undoubtedly, the most eye-taking rider was Miss White of New York and the North Shore, one of the East's finest equestriennes. Miss White's riding costume is most formal—top-hat with face-veil and faultlessly fitting riding-jacket and skirt. She always rides side-saddle, and recently a national sports publication named her as one of a few women riding side-saddle who ride and jump with unusual skill.

ELEO WALKS OUT

Not too enthusiastic a spectator was Miss Eleonora Sears in a black Russian caracuf, sable-collared, coat and brimmed black felt hat. Before the show was half over, her chauffeur escorted her from her box.

Quite the reverse in mood were a gay young foursome made up of Hugh Bancroft, Jr., and his pretty sister, Jane, in green tweeds; John Roosevelt and another Harvard lad, Nathaniel Clark.

"What they were wearing," meaning, of course, society's smartest, was principally fur, fur and more fur, thanks to the temperature, with mink winning by a nose, ermine placing and caracul a good show.

PILLORIED MEN PREFER JAIL

Paintsville, Ky., Dec. 7—The boast of the three young men pilloried on Main street here Wednesday that they would stay in jail the rest of their lives rather than "put in a lick of work," is countered with an ultimatum from county officials there will be no liberty without work.

As James Price, William Dills and Oscar (Blackie) Pelphrey continued passive resistance against going to work for the city street department to liquidate fines and costs of $28.50 each for drunkenness, City Attorney Clifford P. Pace announced that other work would be found for them.

A large pile of bricks, owned by the city needed cleaning, he remarked, and the prisoners could be probably employed on that job.

The young men were pilloried in log chains on a street corner for several hours yesterday morning, because they refused to work out their fines at the customary rate.

Annual Cavalry Horse Show -:- Sees Society in Pink at Armory

Among the social registerite spectators at the 110th Cavalry's horse show at Commonwealth Armory was Miss Lansdale Watson, popular debutante of two seasons ago.

Mrs. James A. Hewlett, pictured here with Cameo, took second prize in the combination ponies class. (Pictures by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

In the Green hunters class for entries which have never won a ribbon, Mrs. William J. Kennedy's Erin's Son and Erin's Glen, shown here, placed second and third.

CLOSE DECISIONS AS ARMORY HORSE SHOW RIBBONS AWARDED

Keen competition in all classes at the Horse Show in Commonwealth Armory provided many thrills and the following summary of ribbon awards:

SHOE CODE MEN OPEN FIGHT

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn today named the personnel of the committee, which will seek to have the Shoe Code re-opened so that a nation-wide scale can be fixed. It is hoped this will put an end to the migration of plants from city to city whenever a wage differential develops.

On the committee, beside Mayor Manning, are Mayors Mansfield; Joseph Brewin, Lowell; Paul Eaton, Beverley; George Bates, Salem; Horace Baker, Brockton; Charles Lyons, Marlboro; and Gayden Morrill, Newburyport, as well as William Attwill, of the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers Association; Fred Seavey, Lynn Chamber of Commerce; George Creston, Haverhill Chamber of Commerce; Peter J. Walsh, counsel of United Shoe and Leather Workers Union.

John Murphy, president of the Shoe and Allied Craftsmen of Brockton; George Smith, business agent of the Cutters Union of Haverhill, and Frank McDermott, president of the Lynn joint council of the United Shoe and Leather Workers.

The group will hold its first meeting next Wednesday afternoon in the State House.

GIRL SUES THAW FOR WHIPPING

Harrisonburg, Va., Dec. 7—Harry K. Thaw was named defendant in a $50,000 damage suit filed today by Miss Clenthis Sandor, of New York, who charged he beat her with a whip and his fists.

She claimed the beating occurred in Berlin August 31, 1933, and suit was filed here since Thaw has an estate in Winchester.

Her bill of complaint charged Thaw, now 69 and gray, beat her with his fists, threw her to the floor and "Thaw, with a certain whip and with his hands gave and struck the plaintiff a great many violent blows on and about divers parts of her face and body."

Miss Lador said Thaw beat her twice on that day and told the court she was "greatly hurt, bruised and wounded and became sick, lame and disordered."

Her petition stated she spent $3000 for treatment.

Car Overturns, Girl, Man Held

V. Thornton Cousens, 34, giving an address in Worcester, was arrested early today in Shrewsbury with a girl after their automobile had missed a curve on the Boston Post road and overturned.

Neither Cousens nor the girl, giving her name as Miss Eva Hebert, 25, of Piedmont street, Worcester, was injured. Cousens was arrested, however, on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and the girl on a charge of drunkenness.

In Worcester court, they both pleaded not guilty and furnished bail for appearance at a hearing next Tuesday.

Move to Strip U. S. Power Against Dope Charged

By International News Service

Washington, Dec. 7—A drive to strip the federal government of all punitive power to curb the drug evil was charged to certain medical interests by Harry Anslinger, federal narcotics commissioner.

Behind the campaign, he charged, is the International White Cross, self-styled anti-narcotics league of California. The league was founded by Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, noted California psychiatrist, convicted in Los Angeles November 17 for violating the Harrison anti-narcotics act.

From its San Francisco office, Anslinger charged, the White Cross League has been flooding the country with propaganda urging abolition of the narcotics bureau for "persecuting" physicians and causing "untold suffering" to drug addicts.

A typical league pamphlet in Anslinger's file states its argument thus:

"The Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act is a complete failure. Morphine prescribed by all the physicians in the United States is not a drop in the bucket compared to foreign narcotics smuggled in and distributed. Why waste money in such a sham fight against the traffic!"

The same pamphlet urges amendment of the narcotic law to abolish the narcotics bureau and permit dope victims to be treated through a clinic system under direction of the United States Public Health Service in co-operation with city, county and state health boards "the narcotics to be given habitual users at cost."

TAX ON STATE HELP LOOMS

By International News Service

Washington, Dec. 7—Salaries of state officers offered a new field for federal taxation today when it was learned that the government was prepared to proceed under a new Supreme Court decision to assess income taxes against many state employes, heretofore regarded as exempt from such levies.

All officials, who are not directly concerned with the administration of purely governmental functions, were affected by the ruling.

Authority for the assessments was granted by the Supreme Court's decision in the case of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. Leland Powers, handed down Monday.

The high tribunal ruled that an officer, appointed by the State of Massachusetts, to the Board of Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railroad, which the state controlled, was liable to a Federal income tax.

Curley in Capital to Press Aid Plan

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Governor-elect James M. Curley came to Washington today to seek approval from government department heads of a public works program he has prepared for Massachusetts.

He was expected also to present to federal housing and relief authorities for their approval the applications of cities and towns of Massachusetts for $41,000,000 to carry out projects throughout the commonwealth.

Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston is expected in Washington tomorrow to present to Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins a monthly allotment of $1,000,000 for Boston's relief projects.

3 Chinese Slain; Tong War Feared

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Three Chinese restaurant employes were shot to death today by two other Chinese in a tenement house near Manhattan's Chinatown district. Police feared a new Tong war.

COUNCIL VETO POWER URGED

Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., a councillor from Dorchester, characterizing the present City Council as an "unofficial, powerless group which can be bought for a constable's position," announced he is preparing legislation whereby the Council would be vested with the power to override vetoes of the mayor.

Wilson will introduce legislation to reduce membership in the City Council from 22 to nine members elected at large.

Wilson would also introduce legislation to increase a councillor's salary from $2000 to $3500, to attract men of a higher calibre in the position.

Although Wilson is a Republican, his plan is supported by John Dowd, Democratic president of the City Council and has written a letter to Governor-elect Curley asking that he support Wilson's legislation.

Hurt in Fall

Abram Inbursky, 51, of 154 Thornstreet, Brookline, was taken to the Haymarket Relief Station today, after toppling from the 3rd to 2nd floor in City Hall. He was treated for a bruised left elbow and foot

JUST NEEDED NEW CAR

Walpole, Dec. 7—Two days ago, two men loaded up a new car in the show window of Olsen's garage with accessories, and drove away with the machine and the loot.

But they were nearly caught when they returned early today, and tried to repeat. They were frightened off by a patrolman, who arrived off-schedule in a prowl car, and ran into the woods, where searchers lost their trail.

ing power in Russia. Czars sent Nihilists to Siberia. Nihilists murdered czars when they could, and murdered other officials frequently.

It was worse and more dramatic in the early days when Peter the Great executed in thousands those that opposed his plans. On one occasion, torturing and killing conspirators against him on a high platform, he caused the corpses of other conspirators to be taken from their graves and dragged to the spot by swine attached to sleds, the corpses being put under the scaffold that the blood of fellow-conspirators might drop upon them.

Such methods are effective but bring reprisals.

Commanders of ships looking for Ulm, Skilling and Littlejohn believe that the three courageous airmen have lost their lives in their flight planned from Oakland to Australia, via Hawaii.

The fliers had lost their way and all the ships of the world could hardly hope to find a small plane, to which they may still be clinging somewhere in the wide Pacific.

It is not pleasant to reflect on the long hours of slow despair that would precede the deaths of those three men, risking their lives with a smile.

But all must die, all will soon be dead. The three will have the satisfaction of knowing that their names are written on a roll of honor, the roll of men not afraid to die in a good cause.

Two interesting items concerning Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of killing Colonel Lindbergh's child.

New Jersey officials announce positively.

"We have new evidence that will tie Hauptmann in the electric chair."

That is No. 1. No. 2 describes the effort of government tax collectors to get from Hauptmann and his wife income tax on Lindbergh ransom money that Hauptmann acquired and spent without saying anything to the government about it.

The government's business is to collect, not to ask "How did you get it?"

Snow drifts in Chicago, interfering with thousands on their way to work, present the first installment of winter weather on the edge of Lake Michigan.

Along the Florida coast, in Southern California and along the Gulf, children with their parents are swimming in the ocean. In far Alaska snow has stopped all traffic until spring comes again.

This is a land of assorted climates, all-year sunshine for the young and the very old. Rugged weather for rugged men. Take your choice. Airplanes will soon make all climates easily and cheaply accessible.

Two thousand Hungarian citizens have been driven out of Yugoslavia, and it is announced that 25,000 more will be similarly treated. This follows an accusation, made by Yugoslavia and intensely offensive to the proud Hungarian race, that the murder of King Alexander was a Hungarian plot. The expulsion of Hungarians is a "revenge measure."

That creates another delicate "war situation." Hungary has complained to the League of Nations, the first step.

Abyssinians Kill 32 Italian Guards

Rome, Dec. 7 (INS)—Thirty-two native Italian soldiers were killed and 130 wounded in a violent clash which occurred when a band of armed Abyssinian raiders attacked the Italian garrison near Ulual Wells in Italian Somaliland, according to information here today.

Extent of casualties among the Abyssinians was not known.

that checked in dorm about with the car reported speeding away from the Speer cottage a few minutes after the murder.

The youth, a handsome, husky football player said to have passed this couple in the machine between 8 and 8:15, took on that night the same was at 8:20.

ATTACKS ALIBI

Because the time differ with the date of the murder was the time mentioned by Miss Mercer, who testified today, the most important of the Mercer witnesses mentioned Miss Mercer. Miss Mercer said Willard McKenzie, 21, said to have been in the automobile, became ill to Miss Mercer's home at 20 Fenwood road, Brookline, at 8:30 o'clock.

From what can be gathered the student has denied ever having been in the car at the time mentioned and has been to an alibi that would account for all his movements between 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

By somewhat of a coincidence it was learned that Miss Mercer on LaRue first met the night, October 20, and her Mr. Hermon school, Robert White saw him at the state police barracks. They both testified to information given by five Mt. Hermon students who have been investigating the suspect's alibi.

27 QUESTIONED

It was on the night that the two letters, so often mentioned by police, were discovered to have been written on typewriters in Worcester and Boston facts, police said that utterly contradicted the suspect's explanation of the letters.

Discovery of the fact that the letters were so written provoked an explanation that they were copies of originals, it was said. But in the case of one of these there was a question raised later.

That same October 20 as a result of LaRue's and Whitelaw's stories and because of the letters, 27 persons were questioned. The period of interrogation began on a Saturday afternoon and continued well into Sunday morning.

Among those who talked with the state police probers were the faculty members, who have been aiding in establishing the so-called alibi story of the suspect.

FACTS IMPORTANT

At that time, LaRue was called off the campus football field to give his evidence. He was all broken up, because he was in a senior-sophomore game and, while his team was ahead when he was on the field, they had lost by the time he returned.

Even he did not realize the importance of the story he told police, the investigators remarked.

HOPE FOR ULM IS FADING

(Copyright 1934 by Universal Service)

Honolulu, Dec. 7—One ray of hope for the safety of Lieutenant C. T. P. Ulm and his two associates, G. N. Littlejohn and J. A. Skilling, remained as the navy withdrew more than half of its forces from the gigantic hunt by sea and air that has been carried on for the three transpacific fliers since they were forced down somewhere off Hawaii Tuesday morning.

That was that the three may have been spared from the direct wreck of their monoplane "Star of Australia" by the crew of some native or Japanese fishing sampan, and may even now be slowly on the way to Honolulu.

The fishing boats, which have been searching for the disabled plane for more than 48 hours, are not equipped with radio, and such a rescue might not be reported for several days.

The navy's move in withdrawing 29 seaplanes and 11 surface craft from the gigantic hunt, which has progressed to cover an area of more than 500 miles radius from the islands of Oahu and Kauai, came after the 48-hour deadline set by Ulm himself had been passed.

Schultz Wins First Round in Court

Albany, Dec. 7 (INS)—Dutch Schultz, former beer baron and New York state's public enemy No. 1, today won the first round of his legal battle to prevent the Federal Government from putting him behind steel bars for income tax evasion.

United States Commissioner Lester T. Hubbard ordered Schultz' $100,000 bail reduced to $75,000.

Australia Enters Hunt for Ulm Plane

By Associated Press.

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 7—The Australian government requested Governor Joseph B. Poindexter of Hawaii today to charter 30 Japanese sampans in its behalf to join the search for Lieutenant Charles T. P. Ulm and his two companions.

The government also offered a reward of £1250 (approximately $5962) for finding the aviator.

"I like things to be so tailored that they almost seem like uniforms. The clothes that have always appealed to me are the most perfectly simple and unadorned, depending solely upon the cut and the quality of the fabric.

"It seems to me that something should be done to stress the importance of truly lovely fabrics. There are so many of these yet, somehow, we hear women discussing colors and lines and almost never ecstatic over the materials.

"During the past seasons the couturiers have launched fabrics of the most interesting weaves and textures.

Favor Black

"My favorite colors" Ever since I was twenty-one, I've worn nothing but black and white in the summer I wear only white, and in the winter either black alone or relieved in white.

"No, I have never tired of them because again there are so many lovely materials that they never seem the same old colors.

"I like my evening clothes cut on the Princess lines. To me that is the most elegant of silhouettes. Despite paillettes and spangles and the lavish use of lame, there is nothing so soft and subtle as the sheen of velvet. I wear it in white or black for evening, changing only to the chic of moire."

Walter, Irene Argue Over His Wife

CHAPTER XIX

Walter was surprised to learn on reaching his Fifty-seventh street shop at eleven—he had stopped at the bank first—to find that Irene had not come in. He phoned her apartment.

"Mrs. Terhune is indisposed," her maid recited primly. "She left word she is not to be disturbed."

Fifteen minutes later Walter was at her side. Irene lay on her luxurious chaise lounge, her head bandaged. She was covered with a green monogrammed silk robe.

She was sulky and irritable.

"My dear," Walter was truly solicitous, "what is the matter? Have you had a doctor?"

"No, stupid, I'm not sick. I'm ill."

"Excuse me if I fail to see the fine distinction."

"Nerves!" she informed him briefly. "I had a run-in with Dirk."

"Whatever for?"

"Because of you!" she snapped. "That was a rotten trick you played to steal about being able to support your wife. Not that that's any of your business, but it was a way to be supporting her, husband except name. Not that we didn't actually create and build up your business," she reminded him.

"I know you did," he admitted humbly. "But I can't see what that has to do with you and Dirk."

"You don't?" she said sarcastically.

Walter flushed. Helen gave him a feeling of power, his status restored him to the status of a gawky schoolboy. He didn't answer, remembering her nerves.

"I suppose I was sore to begin with over your marriage," he continued as Walter was silent, "anyway I began that business of his not supporting me when he could be doing it so magnificently. If he went back to his old job at John Kayle. It was a stupid time to jump on him because he was sore at me because he said I was rude to your wife."

"You were," Walter said shortly.

HAD A QUARREL

"My Lord, Walter, how could you marry that chit?" she asked pluckily. "Oh, my head! Well, never mind. Dirk and I had a quarrel. The worst we ever had. Of course he's always a gentleman. Queer thing about being a gentleman, Walter. You can say the rottenest things in a nice way if you're a gentleman. I must remember that! But I'm upset because he left this morning without making up with me. I was wrong to let him go to bed on the quarrel. That's always bad. One should never sleep on a quarrel. But I was so damned sore, mostly at you, you blockhead! Still, I thought he'd come in. Well, he didn't."

"It will blow over."

"I've got to be more careful. That temper of mine."

"It's time you learned to control it."

"Don't you lecture me. You moron! Oh, Walter, how could you marry that little ignoramus! A manicurist, when you could have married an heiress. Oh, Walter, how could you? She'll ruin us socially."

"She's not an ignoramus," he defended his wife hotly. "She has a sister in college. She herself only had a year more to finish high school. You never saw the inside of a high school," he reminded her brutally, "and you were a manicurist yourself not so long ago."

She grinned amiably. It struck Walter how much she looked like Anastasia that minute. "Nice of you to rub it in, darling. But if I had had a chance, I could have been president of any hen college in the country."

"I don't deny that. I wish you didn't 'damn' so much. And I wish you'd be nice to Helen. I'm so in love with her, Irene."

"Why, you poor sap," she jeered, but there was an affectionate note in her voice. "You'll get over that, too! But wait, I have an idea. You and Helen come to dinner tomorrow. I'm having gore and mere Terhune and the horse (Irene never called her sister-in-law anything else). It will serve a double purpose. It will take the curse off the family dinner and it will serve to show Dirk that I can be big and generous. He likes your wife. Says she's a thoroughbred. Thoroughbred, my foot! Well, anyway, it will be a move for peace. I'm in love, too. Wait, it's hell I haven't meant to fall in love but it seems I have."

"Then why don't you stop nagging him about the job?"

"I can't help it, Walter. I love him. That's why I want to see him rich, successful, taking his place in the society where he belongs. What good are position and power without money? I've got to make him see it! Oh, you'll come tomorrow?"

Walter hesitated. "It's grand of you to ask us, but I'd rather not. Helen is too shy yet to have me spring any formal dinners on her. Let her get used to things a little at first."

Irene shrugged. "As you say!"

"Nerves!" she informed him. "I had a run-in with Dirk."

Walter, fearing to let Irene make trouble, hastened to say: "Don't you know Dirk? He'll be over and over to see you. Be grateful, of course, to be rid of me and in bad now."

At dinner Irene's outbreak shot up. "What is the thing to do, get around the sad girl? And you call her shy!"

"She's sweet, honestly she is, Irene. She went over to see how mama is. She suggested it this morning."

Irene's lip curled as she reached for the phone that rang. "Well, maybe she is. She'd better be, because if she's one of those sneaking white mice she'll better watch herself with me. I mean it."

To be Mrs. Walter Reid! To venture after some hesitation into the shops and buy bath salts and silk bloomers and talc and bedroom slippers and pay for them from the thick roll of bills and say—"Mrs. Walter Reid, the Lord Reid." It was like a dream from which Helen half expected to be awakened any moment to find herself back at her dingy five-and-ten duties and sympathizing with the endless woes of her clients.

Walter met her daily for lunch and now they dined openly, boldly, in the best restaurants, actually looking for acquaintances that he might proudly introduce "my wife."

It was a new New York for Helen, a hitherto undiscovered and completely inaccessible New York. After several days of shopping for her social debut with scarcely a penny to buy clothes, Irene Hunt knew from Saxon goods bought here cotton in small shops on Madison avenue and in shops that line Fifty-seventh to Bergdorf Goodman in the bathroom of the house where his wife died. The method of his act has always been a mystery.

Stores for Poor in Everett Looted

Middlesex County grand jury at East Cambridge indicted Benjamin F. Valpey of Everett for the alleged theft of 273 pounds of butter and a sack of potatoes from the FERA storehouse in Everett November 26. The food sent to Everett by the federal government was to have been distributed to the needy by the local FERA.

SUICIDE'S WIFE ENDS HER LIFE

Brockton, Dec. 7—When Police Inspector George E. Linehan shot and killed himself on Sept. 18, his wife, Nora, said she could not live without him. She meant it.

She was found asphyxiated early today by help in a chair in the east end kitchen of her home on Baxendale terrace, also a suicide, according to Dr. A. F. Budreski, medical examiner.

Her brother, Police Lieutenant Daniel T. Grant, and Patrolmen John F. Hodes and William J. Creach of the district in response to numerous telephone complaints about an odor of gas fumes.

They traced the odor to the Linehan bedroom where Mrs. Linehan had been dead for 12 hours.

Between Linehan and his wife there was no marriage bond of affection. When he was on duty as head of the traffic division sergeant he had passed up to be did not telephone her. They were married 24 years ago and had no children.

Linehan shot himself in the bathroom of the home where his wife died. The method of his act has always been a mystery.

Sick Children Cheered by Santa

Santa Claus, Santaxon, Popeye the Sailor and Herb Taylor, noted circus clown, all from the Jordan Marsh Company toyland, brightened the lives of the children patients in the Good Samaritan Hospital, Dimock street, yesterday afternoon.

The children able to leave bed met the quartet in one large ward. After the distribution of gifts and the entertainment, Santa Claus, Santaxon and the others visited the bedridden children.

Astronomer Sees 'Life as We Know It' on Planets

By Associated Press

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 7—A possibility "life as we know it may exist" on [illegible] was seen today by Dr. [illegible] director of Mount Wilson observatory, recently found there was not enough oxygen on Mars [illegible].

[illegible] way gaseous [illegible] Adams said, [illegible] Astronomers have been unable to determine with certainty the presence of [illegible] Mars.

Dr. Sternberg advanced a theory that the universe was once a mass of "primordial gas" so great as to tax the imagination.

"The motions of the stars and planets indicate there was a time when the stars and the sun were of enormous size, in fact the whole galaxy was a huge ball of gas," Dr. Sternberg said. "The complicated motions of the stars, planets, asteroids and satellites are accounted for by the accumulated action of viscosity in the gas.

"After all, we do not have to feel so lonely in the universe. Even if the other planets in the solar system are not suitable for human habitation, there may be innumerable other suns with planets where life as we know it may well exist."

Miners Fear for Jobs

Pittsburgh, Dec. 7—A protest [illegible] was addressed [illegible] by the American Coal Mining Institute. Dean E. A. Holbrook of the University of Pittsburgh, told delegates the St. Lawrence waterway project would make 100,000 coal miners idle.

MOTHER URGES KARPIS TO GIVE UP

Chicago, Dec. 7—While Department of Justice agents sought him with orders of "shoot to kill," a mother today issued an appeal to her boy to give himself up and take his medicine.

Alvin Karpis, whose real name is Alvin Karpavicz, is wanted as one of Chicago's leading public enemies.

MOTHER IS FEARFUL

Fearful lest her son be slain in a battle with federal sleuths, such as wiped out the rest of the Dillinger gang, the aged mother, Mrs. Hannah Karpavicz, asked newspapers to broadcast a plea that Alvin surrender.

In order to prove to him that the appeal was from his mother, she released through the Chicago Herald and Examiner the only extant photograph of the youth.

It was taken when he was only 13 years old and was one of the aged mother's most prized possessions.

Karpis was urged to establish contact with the Chicago Herald and Examiner so that arrangements for a peaceful surrender might be made.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

This Is Life
by ROBERT E. ROGERS

There is no particular need to be worried about the decline in the Republicans are in power. Senator Borah's views that the party must either be reformed completely from the inside or be replaced by a third party.

An astrologer has forecast that by 1940 there will be neither any Republican or Democratic party left. He doesn't say what the substitute will be. Whether a one-party system of a totalitarian nature.

Mr. Curtis in Worcester said he thought the new parties would be the old English parties Conservative and Liberal.

But maybe the governor simply had what statisticians call "an extra reading."

Robert E. Rogers

two dollars more, please" and get a true editorial the A.P. missed.

Anyway, the Republicans are powerfully disturbed by Mr. Borah's jeremiad—in Washington, in New York, everywhere except in Massachusetts where the party still does not know what it's all about.

The interesting thing about Borah's statement is that, in default of a readjustment of control in the G. O. P., he predicted a third party.

Now the senator must know perfectly well that, historically, the third party idea has never worked in the United States. Every third party that has ever appeared has been taken into camp eventually by one of the old parties.

Other Third Parties

The old Republican party of John Quincy Adams was swallowed up by the Jacksonian Democracy. The decaying Whig party was taken into camp by the Free Soilers, who called themselves Republicans. The Democrats assimilated the Populists or the Progressives, depending on which party you belonged to. It was hard to tell which in 1896.

And the most sensational of the third parties, the Progressive Bull Moose party of 1912, subsequently went, meekly back into the elephant's fold.

Senator Borah should know Americans do not do things that way. Mr. Curley's prediction of two parties, liberals and conservatives, individualists and collectivists, haves and want-to-haves, is much more likely.

The other alternative, says Borah and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Mr. Mary of New York and a lot of other people, is a reformed Republican party. But centuries ago a wise man asked, "Can the leopard change his spots or the Ethiopian his skin?" The answer was in the negative.

The principles of Republicanism are probably more deeply instilled into the small business man of the northeastern industrial section than are the principles of the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount. He may not be able to recite them any better, but he believes in them more.

G. O. P. Dilemma

His creed of life is largely made up of the high protective tariff, the Sherman anti-trust law in theory and its violation in practice, laissez-faire with as little government regulation as possible, low taxes and high profits, and so forth.

Take away any of these and the Republican party is no longer Republican.

Take them all away, as the "progressives" in the party never really insist, and the Republican party has merely become the Democratic party—that is, it has been swallowed up and we have in fact a totalitarian state.

That, plainly stated, is the dilemma the Republicans are in. It is not too much to say that every single item of the traditional Republican program is under the deep suspicion, not only of the professional liberals and state socialists and reformers, but of the man in the rank and file, the man in the street, the man who has been taught to suspect the banks and big business and the tariff and all the rest.

Indeed, the only traditional Republican plank the man in the street can endure to think of is that of a strong central government in Washington controlling the individual states.

So it looks as if the NEW Republican party is going to be a marvelous thing; a completely synthetic product invented for the purpose, bricks made without straw, a silk purse from a sow's ear, figs from thistles, and tied with ropes.

It will have to be a NEW heaven and a NEW earth that the NEW Republican party envisages . . . because the present one is entirely owned and operated by the Democrats.

HALE, HEARTY CARDINAL TO MARK 75TH BIRTHDAY

Cardinal O'Connell

Decency League To Stay

CARDINAL HAYES HAILS PURER MOVIES

By Universal Service

New York, Dec. 7—Cardinal Hayes has sent to all pastors in the New York diocese a letter, to be read at all masses Sunday, urging Catholics to make permanent the League of Decency formed in the Catholic Church's crusade for cleaner motion pictures.

Members of the league will be asked to renew their pledge annually or and agree to boycott theaters which show pictures that fall outside the approved list of the church. This list, published by the archdiocese of Chicago, will serve the league of every diocese, the letter states, and will catalogue suitable as well as unsuitable pictures.

Cardinal Hayes' letter reports gratifying results. The letter relates:

"Only a few producers have failed to heed an aroused public sentiment against indecent presentations. Many leading artists of the screen have expressed their satisfaction with the changed atmosphere for the better.

"We realize that the movement was an American as it was Catholic. Had not our non-Catholic fellow citizens risen to our support, we, indeed, should have reached a measure of success among our own people, but nothing to compare with the notable achievement, now publicly acknowledged, as a result of an aroused American sentiment almost everywhere."

DEAD MEN SUE

Three suits for $20,000 were filed in Suffolk superior court by Samuel L. Ballen, as administrator for the estates of three Walpole men who died after a party in the Weld avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Baron of Norwood, last January.

The writs allege that the three men were given liquor containing wood alcohol. The three men who died were Alexander Ramaskoski, Anton Olsen and Peter Boxwadaus.

Religious 'War to Finish;' Cardinal Scores Mexico

Greets 75th Birthday

PRELATE GIVES HIS VIEWS ON FR. COUGHLIN; DECRIES GAMBLING

By JAMES F. McENANEY

The situation in Mexico is "one of the most lamentable in the world," Cardinal O'Connell said today on the eve of his 75th birthday, which he celebrates tomorrow.

"I almost stop and weep when I think about," he said in an interview which covered a multitude of topics, "how in this day and on a civilized continent such a situation can be permitted to continue is beyond me.

"Of course, it is just as it is in Russia; a little clique has gotten control of the government and carried out its schemes. That, and nothing else."

"This is a war to the finish on the part of the atheists and anarchists to put to death and otherwise punish men and women, whose one crime is their devotion to their religion and to the duties dictated by their own consciences.

"False Praise"

"It has been said, and fairly well proven, that a lot of this was started, whether consciously or unconsciously, by some officials sent there from the United States, who have indiscriminately praised the leaders responsible, thinking their words were a diplomatic kindness."

On his birthday anniversary tomorrow, the Cardinal will celebrate a mass of thanksgiving at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross at 9 a. m. His anniversary also falls on the Catholic feast day of the Immaculate Conception.

An altar he will lay the cornerstone for the new Catholic Center on Franklin street, in downtown Boston, a stone's throw from where the first Catholic church was built in the city. Later in the day he will be guest of the League of Catholic Women.

One of the first questions asked of His Eminence was whether he had changed his views on Father Coughlin and what he thought of the Royal Oaks priest's proposed National Union for Social Justice. The Cardinal replied

"I still maintain my original position—that it is very hazardous for a priest, or, for that matter, any clergyman, to enter into economic or political controversy.

"Of course, a priest must be interested in the welfare of the poor, but he must have a deep and well balanced sense of justice to keep the arms of the balance straight. The priest's place is in the sanctuary, where he is to preach the word of God.

"It should be remembered that no individual priest has the right to speak for the whole church, that he has no right to commit the church to any particular philosophy of economics.

Holds to Position

"His mission is to preach the word of God and not to arouse animosities and feelings of partisanship, especially in the field of politics or what might be called economic politics. I have stated that position before and I keep to it."

When His Eminence was asked what he thought about the legalization of pari-mutuel betting in the state, he spoke freely about horse racing, but added an admonitory note—that his interviewers mustn't make him appear to be an advocate of betting. He said:

"Horse racing has been known in all civilized countries of the world from time immemorial. It is difficult to make a statement concerning it, since as in everything else, if those who are participating in it are temperate, there is no harm to it.

A Moral Danger

"There is an important distinction, one should remember, between betting and gambling. To forbid betting is to sweep away the innocent enjoyment of people who play cards in the house with small bets on the outcome.

"You cannot make a general principle and expect it to apply to every instance in the world. Some persons get great excitement from horse racing without moral danger. The sport has been prevalent in England, Ireland, France, for generations and has acted as a stimulus for breeding of fine horses.

"As to betting on horse racing, if one is excessive in this and goes to extremes, there the moral question enters.

"Moral danger enters of course if a man risks his fortune or the happiness of his family, or if he endangers his property. It is like eating or drinking. It is bad if carried to an extreme.

"If horse racing is properly regulated and administered as a mere sport, it is perhaps all right, although I don't wish to appear as if I were endorsing or favoring it.

"Cruelty to animals is an aspect that should not be forgotten. Those in charge have a duty to see that the animals are not abused."

Views on Repeal

His Eminence's opinion on the matter of repeal was asked. The Cardinal said that he would answer the question by stating that his views on prohibition hadn't changed. He explained:

"As I have said before, temperance is a virtue, and civil legislation cannot enforce observance of a moral law that is primarily a personal one.

"Temperance can only be achieved by training, education and self-control, not by civil law."

The Cardinal talked freely about books, mentioning that he had thoroughly enjoyed Judge Robert Grant's "Fourscore." At the same time he let it be known that he was contemplating a second volume of his "Recollections."

Asked his views for better motion pictures, the Cardinal felt, has succeeded to some extent, but has a long way to go yet. He said of the situation:

"We are not just satisfied with the amount of co-operation given to us by the so-called movie magnates.

"We are rather fearsome that they will try to slip something over on us when they can.

"We have had no censorship, but there has been aroused a very strong sense of public decency and it has brought about good results."

CO-ED INTELLIGENCE TEST TO DETERMINE DANCE PRIZE

Now it came out today that in the cooking up of novelties for the M. I. T. boys' parties, the girls attending a dormitory dance at Walker Memorial a week from tonight will be dealt with very unfairly in a matter of vinegar, diapers, olive oil and the like.

Upon how well versed is the girl in problems of housekeeping will depend the admission price her escort must pay, the rate ranging from $1 to $1.50.

The girls will be subjected to a on the way of a household intelligence test—and in this the boys have hewed very close to the line indeed-looking, at it from any angle you wish.

To the 16 questions each girl must write either "True" or "False." And once a minute will be allowed to complete the list. And if you will try writing "True" and False 16 times small, you'll discover that it takes about 40 seconds leaving only 20 second for thinking.

Here are the questions propounded for girls attending the household intelligence dance:

1—Olive oil is used in making Hollandaise sauce.

2—Tomatoes should never be cooked in an aluminum dish.

3—Steel wool should be used to cleanenamelware.

4—Vinegar is used in cooking red cabbage.

5—Mock turtle soup is made out of turtles.

6—White sugar is used in making butter scotch sauce.

7—Vinegar is made out of pickle juice.

8—Puffed rice is used to make rice custards.

9—Quaker oats are fed to horses.

10—Spaghetti is a vegetable.

11—Only one pin is used to fasten a baby's diaper.

12—Leb Kuchen is a vegetable.

13—Ether is used to remove cod liver oil from baby's clothes.

14—Hot water should never be used to remove fruit stains.

15—Woolens, when washed in hot water, will retain their softness.

UNIQUE COLLECTIONS ON VIEW AT HOBBY SHOW NEXT WEEK

Now comes the latest and most unique in shows—the Hobby Show.

Next Tuesday it is to open at Horticultural Hall for the presentation of an array of hobby collections never before shown in this section of the country.

Henry Schumacher of Roslindale, himself an inveterate collector of stamps, conceived the idea. He interested Campbell-Fairbanks Expositions and the show was rounded into shape.

Piles of old newspapers and hand bills are in one collection. Then there is the man with the novel collection of paper match covers, the doctor who has a replica of every type of spectacle or eye glasses ever produced.

There are collections of butterflies; pictures of movie stars; antiques; ship models and any number of others, including a tiny radio the size of the head of a pin. The show will continue through Saturday.

Gibbons' Cure

Maud Hart Lovelace, novelist, and her newspaperman husband went out to their old town in Minnesota recently to collaborate on a novel. Feeling certain no burg in their state had the name "Welcome," they gave that to their locale.

But lo a hamlet near Fairmont bears it and the citizens held a festival to honor their celebrity.

Floyd Gibbons, after 18 months of top speed giddyap which made him America's fastest broadcaster, staggered in to his doctor and moaned "I'm all cracked up and headed for the grave. Nobody could stand this pace and come out without a terrible jolt."

So Gibbons was put through X-rays his blood count, tested his knee jerks and what not. And there was not even a minor ailment.

So Gibbons was led into the sunshine, sniffed at his chest and smiled the smile of victory. Central Park beckoned and he swung into brisk stride. Miles passed under heel. Five six solid hours he exulted and walked.

Then returned to his hotel, removed his shoes, rolled in bed again and went to bed for five days with blistered feet.

H. T. Webster pegged a real life version of his "thrill that comes in a lifetime" when he was a boy when he drove to Horseheads, N. Y. to visit his boyhood god Zim, the circus clown.

ROBERT DONAT JOINS WARNER STARS -:- -:- BOSTON BOY'S BALLET DREAM REALIZED

Star of "Monte Cristo" Will Be Featured in New "Captain Blood" Film

(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, Dec. 7—Three weeks of telephone calls, cables and letters between Jack Warner and Hal Wallis here, and Irving Asher in London, resulted in Robert Donat's ("Monte Cristo" fame) signing a long term contract with Warner Brothers. He'll be here shortly after the frist of the year to talk over plans already made for him to star in Rafael Sabatini's "Captain Blood."

Donat, of course, owes Paramount "Peter Ibbetson" before he is free to make his Warner picture. And that reminds me I made the boner of any year when I gave Ibsen author's credit for "Peter Ibbetson" instead of George Du Maurier. Constance Collier, who played in the stage version, produced it in New York and sold the screen rights to Paramount.

Louella O. Parsons

To return to "Captain Blood," it was produced some years ago as a silent picture with Milton Sills. It's a great story for Donat whom I believe will be one of our greatest film stars within the year.

Leopold Stokowski, leader of the Philadelphia Symphony, who was a sensation on the air, is planning, so I hear, to come into the movies. He has an offer from one of the big companies and rumor says its paramount. He and his family will try out Hollywood. Mrs. Stokowski was formerly Evangeline Johnson, a multi-millionairess, who hails from New Jersey and who has a number of friends here.

William Anthony McGuire who has been testing and testing to get just the right types for "The Great Ziegfeld" picture, expects to get into production next week. He signed Irene Biller Hungarian actress, and a great friend of Daisy and Paul Lukas for the role of Anna Held. This was a bit surprising inasmuch as I had been told that Madge Bellamy had been given that part. But it seems after Bill saw a test of Miss Biller he couldn't wait to get her John Hancock on a contract.

If Miss Suratt will apply to 80 Centre street, New York City, and prove her identity she will receive her valuables.

Always glad to hear of one of our movie scribes writing and selling a scenario. Original ideas, these days are so few and far between that Marce a Burke deserves credit for having written "Morning, Noon and Night" and sold it to Paramount for Sylvia Sidney. The idea, divorce by proxy, sounds original and one of the things under the sun that hasn't been done before.

A Line or Two

Bright-eyed Mary Doran who at one time was such a favorite on the stage and screen, is coming back to the movies. Mary, in private life is the wife of Joseph Sherman in the scenario department at Metro Goldwyn-Mayer and it's to MGM that she is returning. She will play one of the important parts in "Naughty Marietta," Jeanette MacDonald's next picture and it goes into production tomorrow. Coming to Hollywood next week is June Martel, a clever actress and a gal who has made a name for herself on Broadway. She was signed by Harry Warner or may be it was Major Warner, but anyway, the Warners are bringing her here to appear in the movies.

The dreams of youth are dreamed and the hope of youth are both shattered and founded in "Gentlemen Are Born," which is one of the feature attractions of the current screen program at the Paramount and Fenway theaters. ## Lincoln Kirstein Wins Praise as His Dance School Scores in World Premiere

Hartford, Dec. 7—Last night in the Avery Memorial theater of Hartford a large group of writers, musicians, artists and society people gathered to see the realization of a dream. It had been the dream of a Boston boy, Lincoln Kirstein, son of Louis E. Kirstein, well known merchant and philantoropist.

The realization of the dream was the performance of three ballets by the producing company of the School of American Ballet. This school was founded last January in New York by young Mr. Kirstein who is a painter and writer interested in all the arts, especially the ballet, and Edward M. M. Warburg of New York. They persuaded the great Russian choreographer, George Balanchine, to be their artistic director.

The debut performance, arousing the greatest enthusiasm in the brilliant audience, offered much interest from every point of view. The first ballet "Mozartiana" presented a series of dances in the classical tradition costumes and the sets by Christian Berard are attractive in design and color.

The ballet "Alma Mater" completely modern in choreography and decoration, is a most amusing and clever conception based on college football. The set and costumes, designed by John Held, Jr., are brilliant, colorful and humorous. Mr. Warburg wrote the book, the music is by Kay Swift. The dancing in this number was considerably freer and surer than in the first ballet, perhaps because the modern steps employed come more naturally to the young dancers than the intricate feats of classical ballet. While portions of "Alma Mater" were commonplace and perhaps a little too slap-stick in effect, the whole picture was most colorful, skillfully planned, and gave a dashing humorous opportunity to prove that the ballet is not a dead classical form of entertainment but can be a vivid satirical expression of contemporary life.

The third ballet, transcendence done to familiar music by Franz Liszt and arranged by the ultra modern composer, George Antheil, was the most ambitious and complicated of the evening. The story is not altogether clear, but it offers opportunity for striking contrast and conventional struggle between good and evil, light and dark, with brilliant grouping and clever arrangements for solo dancers. The costumes and set by Franklin Watkins were extremely lovely. Very subtle in line and color and enhanced by excellent lighting.

Mr. Balanchine's conceptions are at times beyond the ability of his young dancers, for he is used to working with the talent of the Russian ballet, but they have done fine work in the short year of the new school's existence and offer artistic promise as well as real accomplishment.

Mr. Kirstein and Mr. Warburg deserved the heart-warming applause and shouts of approval of a discerning audience. Among those present were Mr. Nelson Rockefeller, Mrs. James Roosevelt and her sister, Miss Cushing, John Held, Jr., Jack Saltonstall, Russell Hitchcock, Mrs. Harry Curtiss, Lincoln Kirstein, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kuhn and George Gershwin.

"Peaches"

Although she claims there is no longer a "Peaches" Browning, the young and pretty widow of the late Daddy Browning will headline the stage show at the Gayety, starting Sunday.

William Powell and Myrna Loy Superb in New Story of Love and Courts

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Those who are weary with the usual run of film fare will find a good measure of drama's case in "Evelyn Prentice," the feature film attraction at Loew's State Theater this week which brings together once more that very compatible pair, William Powell and Myrna Loy.

There ought to be a statute of the collective noun of an artful crime story and the gentle, lady part found from a home-wrecker of the past and a bored wife at her piano who wished poetry and romance.

There ought to be a story and there is. And Evelyn Prentice (Miss Loy) is a lady, cultured and entertaining fiction. William Powell is the prosecuting attorney who finds a lady who undresses in the presence of men quite natural. So he cleared the prisoner, wished her Godspeed, but Prentice gets her off, and she is very, very grateful. So grateful that when John Porter hoofed on a business trip back to Frisco and found he felt a bit down in the dumps for Miss Loy, Powell made it look as if he'd accidentally bumped into Myrna Loy and Leslie Howard in the lobby of the same hotel. Howard was in a fit of jingle-the contents of his pet wrist watch in a hot compartment.

Back in New York Myrna Loy as Jenny's wife, Evelyn knocks her self-pity unmindful that every criminal John Lees meets a new bravery. Larry Kent and a smart-aleck adventurer come upon the scene and more to whir away a few hours one hour's than anything else. Kathy, carried on an abortive flirtation with him, takes on a more serious aspect when the couple's Pullman Company sends her a strange wrist watch. But Powell gets through with her all. She still loves her husband, and Jenny pulls a masterful stroke. Before he gets to court a few and cross-examines Larry she and Evelyn confront each other. When the prosecutor arrives however, they find Judith Wilson (Una Merkel), a sweet young woman, on the bed. Jenny comes in and at Evelyn's insistence, runs on the defense of the girl. And in further explaining a situation which husband is defending a girl for a murder which his own wife committed would be a mean trick.

Suffice it to say that one of the season's best-formed film productions and William K. Howard's direction has made a joy of good picture and pictures of characters. Una Merkel, Isabel Jewell, Sophie Tucker and others in the cast are fine. Pearl Eaves' Sophie and others in the Cora Sue Collins.

Accepted from Cecil B. DeMille's Saturday Evening Post's short story, Ethel Turner's direction of the picture is excellent. Myrna Loy looks and acts the part of Jenny, Powell is the man in love with his wife and decided to be small about it. So the lady gets another and in a fit of jingle-the contents of her pet wrist watch in a hot compartment.

EIGHT PITHY RULES TELL MASCULINE WORLD HOW TO KEEP A WOMAN'S LOVE

Hollywood Version of Dolly Madison Coiffure

1814 OR 1934. What is the difference? Hardly any, when Hollywood turns back history's pages to borrow the glamorous, exciting curls popularized by Dolly Madison for her romantic White House crinoline balls. Astrid Allwyn is seen combing out the "poppyette" curls, which is the first step in creating the 1934 version of Dolly's famed headdress. The hair is curled in ringlets and later combed out and up toward the crown of the head—from the nape of the neck. The ends are then re-curled over the finger and spread out over the crown to form the high coiffure.

Combination Dentifrice and Rinse for Perfect Hygiene

By Juliet Shelby

DENTISTS claim that all too often the good results of their work on your teeth is destroyed by improper brushing and mouth negligence. They recommend an effective method of home care as a preventive of mouth diseases and to build resistance of the teeth to decay.

This method is exceedingly simple and very beneficial. You make a solution by measuring a capful of minute grains and dissolving them in a glass of cool water. With this solution you gargle your throat and thoroughly wash your mouth before dipping in a toothbrush.

The solution contains sodium chloride and calcium hydroxide which permit thorough cleansing of the teeth and mouth and a neutralizing of mouth acids. It is pleasantly flavored, and even [illegible] who usually turns up his nose at anything that resembles medicine, will delight in using it morning and night.

This combined dentrifice and mouth wash removes the film from the teeth, stimulates circulation in the gums, if you brush properly, and overcomes undue dryness of the mouth. It should be in every household, for the smallest bottle of grains makes 12 quarts of solution. At that price every member of the family should use it both morning and night. This method of mouth hygiene was originated several years ago by two of the world's [illegible] and the [illegible] now being taught in several [illegible] dental colleges. In the past few years it has gained the [illegible] of hundreds of foresighted dentists.

[illegible] teeth and an unclean mouth [illegible] from personal loveliness to [illegible] alarming degree [illegible] man and woman should [illegible] mouth hygiene a [illegible] to be neglected. And when a [illegible] method costs so little [illegible] should begin the ritual [illegible].

If you wish to learn the name of this mouth preparation and where [illegible] phone LIberty 4000 [illegible] for Juliet Shelby. [illegible] this information by [illegible] a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Beauty Editor, Boston Evening American.

Glittering Holiday Fashions

There is a new pile lined velvet with lots of body featured in evening coats, capes and jackets. One notes them in black, white and vivid shades of red—a splendid Christmas gift for the girl home from school.

BUTTONS continue to invade the smart mode, but one doesn't tire of them because they are always taking on new shapes and faces. Some of the loveliest new frocks, designed for cruise and resort, feature the large plain plastic composition buttons entirely down the front of the frock. A stunning evening frock of black transparent velvet has a front bodice closing of buttons that look like pearls set close together, the effect being that of a string of pearls down the front.

HATS for Palm Beach are being shown now in New York and are in a variety of new straws, braids and fabrics, including both braids and fabrics of a very rough texture and feature the shiny and dull contrast. Color along with white plays an important part. The white hat with vivid color accent introduced through the band or embroidered effect is new and chic. Brims are featured both wide and narrow and crowns are most intricately manipulated often giving the effect of being higher than they are.

Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder—Of the Absence, Says Writer

By Sheilah Graham

Almost any male can make a woman fall in love with him. It takes a smart one to keep her that way.

If you are in the position of the former without being the latter, read on. The following will help you.

When you quarrel with the dream girl be sure to let her have the final words, even if they are only "What was that you said you did so and so?"

Tell her whenever you can—and cannot—that she is smart and beautiful.

Do not wisecrack at her expense. For instance, when she lisps "Darling, do you really like dumb women better than others?" avoid the temptation of saying, "What others, honey-bunch?"

Let her buy all the clothes her vanity desires.

'Ever since the world began
Man has had to buy woman clothes—or scram.'

Bless her little heart she will get her new ensemble somehow, so you might as well give it to her before she demands—and keep her love.

Think of your money as a controlling force—but let your dream woman control it. Yes, I know it would soon be a spent force, but what does money matter if you keep the woman you love. (I refuse to print several rude masculine "Oh, yeah's" that have just reached me.)

I have just been asked by a worried male exactly how long ladies should be rushed so as to keep them in love.

(ME) The same as short ones. (I apologize for this facetiousness, but a sunshiny day always affects me.)

The following little poem is not mine, but it will help you lads with your difficult problem. I give it to you for what it is worth:

"This is a fact
And not a foolish witticism,
All women like lots of praise,
But not a word of criticism."

If you want to keep her in love after you are married, you must give her the comforts to which your engagement spending has accustomed her. If the Ritz has been your courtship background, take her there after you have put Mrs. in front of her name. (The moral of this is never take her to the Ritz—do your engagement eating in Childs.)

Be with her as much as possible. Absence makes the heart grow fonder of the absence.

Do not give her everything she wants except the aforementioned garments. I once heard a spinster lady yell to a bunch of married women: "Do your husbands give you everything you ask for?"

In the silence that followed one plump, happy looking female stood up and said, "Yes." But the spinster lady had a grand comeback: "That means that you are not asking for enough," she snapped.

Trust the girl. Trust her to do to you what you will do to her. In love it is distinctly unfair to have a double set of rules—doubting for the male and trusting for the female.

Signature on Greeting Card of Widow

By Mrs. Beeckman

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct for a widow to have her name printed "Mrs. John Doe" on her Christmas cards rather than Mrs. Mary Doe? Reader.

On a formally-worded Christmas card [illegible] that, for instance, reads: Wishes you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year—a widow uses the same form of name that she used when her husband was living—Mrs. John Doe.

On an informally-worded Christmas card, one to which she signs her name, she uses either her first name, to very close friends, or her formal signature, Mary Doe or Mary Smith Doe.

Under no circumstances, formal or informal, should she use the form Mrs. Mary Doe, on cards of any kind, greeting cards or visiting cards.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE —:— By Adele Garrison

Lee Chow, upon Madge's return, bolts the library door.

CHAPTER 211

For a petrified instant after Lee Chow's [illegible] I [illegible] motionless [illegible] had he found [illegible] I had been talking to my [illegible] in the library, next to [illegible] where I had left him? Or was he simply making a shrewd guess?

Of one thing I was certain, and the knowledge gave me courage. He could not possibly have overheard a word we were saying or even an intimation which would permit him a [illegible] the subject of our conversation. The method of talking from the side of the mouth [illegible] and their detectors [illegible] which I learned from my father and Lillian during my [illegible] ship to them [illegible] secret service [illegible] audible [illegible] distance away. Nor [illegible] interpreted by lip reading.

There was [illegible] be made and I [illegible] ly, and with [illegible] of carelessness [illegible].

"I always [illegible] fortunate in [illegible]" I said easily. "Indeed I am always sure of finding him waiting for me if I am out of the house. He likes to feel that I am safely indoors before he goes to sleep. I suppose some daughters would be terribly [illegible] they [illegible] but I like it. More than that, I love the thought, and him for cherishing it."

I had spoken with the sincerity I always feel when discussing my father's care for me, and I wondered if I were mistaken in thinking that the inscrutable face of the Chinese had relaxed ever so little. When he spoke I began to hope that he had taken my explanation at its face value.

"He is a good father," he said [illegible] "Is he still waiting up for you?"

"Oh no," I replied quickly, feeling [illegible] justified [illegible] "He went down the hall just as I came in here."

[illegible] part of my statement was true, at least [illegible] and Lee Chow nodded.

"No one else is likely to disturb us?" he asked. "The servants—"

"[illegible] come in this part of the house again tonight," I told him truthfully. "They have enough to do to get the kitchen [illegible] and they will go to bed directly afterward. No, we are perfectly safe from intrusion."

He rose and [illegible] to me [illegible] toward the door [illegible] with the library [illegible] to look into the [illegible] do not mind [illegible] Someone might have [illegible] to read a bit before going to bed."

He put his hand upon the latch, [illegible] assumption of casual surprise.

"It is locked," he said and I wondered how many seconds after my departure from the room he had waited to try that door the first time.

"Y[illegible] I generally keep it locked," I returned lightly. "This is my sanctum sanctorum, you know, and I try to keep it free from intrusion. But I always carry a key in every bag I possess, even my evening one, so I can unlock it for you in a trice."

I took the key from my bag and, going up to him, bent and unlocked the door and threw it open. Lee Chow with a bow and a muttered apology went past me and walked through the room, scrutinizing every corner of it. Pausing only to take the key from the lock, I followed him, dangling the key conspicuously. As he apparently was satisfied, turned back toward the little room, I pretended to catch my foot against an old-fashioned floor grating through which the furnace heat comes up and, stumbling, dropped the key, which fell far below, with a little tinkle of metal.

SAFE FROM INTRUSION

"Oh, how stupid of me!" I said. "But it really doesn't matter tonight, and I have other keys to the door."

"No, it really does not matter." Lee Chow repeated, "except that I want to make sure there are no eavesdroppers, intended or by chance, to our conversation, so I know you will not mind my doing this."

He walked across the room as he spoke to the door leading from the library into the hall, and [illegible] its old-fashioned bolt into place.

"There!" he said. "Now we are safe from intrusion as far as this room is concerned. But let us go back to the other and cozier room. It lends itself better to confidential communications, and I shall sit far enough from the hall door so that no one outside can possibly hear me. It is this room of which I am afraid."

Amusing and Useful Gifts

NEWEST and handiest canape-and-cocktail gadget. Just big enough to hold an anchovy-spread wafer and some cheese-filled celery. Chromium, with a ritz blue cocktail glass removable from its metal frame. A little over a dollar.

THE TEMPTATION is too great not to say it—wanna buy a duck? In natural colors with bright glass eyes that are twinkling and real. It's a doorstop, and just demands to stop a door in an early American or any peasant-inspired room. Around a dollar.

Triangular Lines for Slimness

By MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9210

If you are one of the thousands of women with a "figure complex" you'll like the triangular lines of this well tailored frock. For the dress is cut with an eye to flattering the more mature figure. The skirt panels sweep up to chic points above the waistline and give the long slim look which all of us are trying to achieve today. The bodice closes in a buttoned point and adds a crushed scarf collar for flattery around the neck. Make the frock with the collar, and semi-belted, if you prefer—and let the [illegible] sleeves hang open at the wrists or [illegible] them into smart triangular flares as is shown in the smaller sketch.

Pattern 9210 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3 yards 39-inch fabric and [illegible] yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Turn to our WINTER FASHION BOOK for page after page of smart, winter styles for children and grown-ups, every one of them designed by Marian Martin, our Pattern Editor. ORDER YOUR COPY TODAY! PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS BUT IT COSTS ONLY TEN CENTS WHEN ORDERED WITH A PATTERN. PATTERN AND BOOK TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Strengthening Muscles

Question: I am 16 years old and my bust is very small. Will you please tell me the easiest and best way to enlarge it. I do not want to get fat anywhere else. J. A., Boston.

Answer: You are much too young to worry about the size of your bust. Adopt a good bodily position, and that means throwing your shoulders out and keeping your stomach in, and you'll forget all about your bust. If you strengthen your shoulder muscles you can depend on nature to take care of your chest development.

Question: Will you please tell me how to make a home-made brilliantine. My hair is always very fluffy after shampoos and I think that brilliantine will help to keep it in place. MARY P., Cambridge.

Answer: There are many good brilliantines on the market, but if you wish to make one yourself, here is a good recipe. Mix together four ounces of alcohol, one ounce of castor oil and 20 drops of white rose. That is all there is to it.

Question: Quite a time ago I read in your column of a skin food of organo-therapic character, said to have a three-minute penetrating action. As my skin is very dry and scaly, I should like to know where I can find this cream. As my legs are also out of proportion with the rest of my figure, I would like to try that reducing soap you mentioned recently. Dorothy W., Somerville.

Answer: Trade names of cosmetics are never mentioned in my column. However, if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, I will be glad to give you the name of the three-minute penetrating cream, and also the reducing soap. I have a special set of leg exercises which you may also have if you will send the necessary postage.

Refusing to Be Forced

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The management of a seven-card trump suit which is split four and three between the declarer's hand and the dummy often presents acute problems in trump conservation. With six trumps adversely held it is distinctly probable that one of the opponents holds four. In such an event the defenders generally try to force the declarer, and declarer must try to avoid their trap.

Cautious observance of this well-known principle of trump management pulled the game out of the fire for the South player in the deal show below.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North: ♠ 6 4; ♡ K 8 6; ◇ K Q J 10 5 3; ♣ Q 4
West: ♠ A 5 3 2; ♡ 5 4 3 2; ◇ 4; ♣ A K 5 2
East: ♠ Q J 10; ♡ 9 7; ◇ 6 2; ♣ J 9 8 7 6 5
South: ♠ K 9 8 7; ♡ A Q J 10; ◇ A 9 8 7; ♣ 10

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♡ | Pass (1) | 2 ◇ | Pass |
| 3 ◇ | Pass | 3 ♡ (2) | Pass |
| 4 ♡ (3) | Pass | Pass | Pass |

(1) West's holding, while strong in honor-tricks, is by no means strong enough in playing-tricks to risk a vulnerable overcall.

(2) North sees little prospect of taking 11 tricks at diamonds. There is a fair chance, however, if South's hearts are not too shabby, that a heart contract will produce 10 tricks.

(3) South sees the point, and with his very strong four-card suit decides that the game in hearts is a good risk.

West opened the King of clubs, on which his partner played the encouraging nine. The club Ace was now laid down, and declarer took careful stock of his resources. Four trump tricks were very evident and six diamond tricks equally so. The only problem was to make sure that the spade loss was limited to one trick and that the trump suit was not weakened by the force. South saw that if he allowed the Ace of clubs to win, the dummy could trump the next club, if the suit were continued, and since West was on lead, even a spade shift would produce only one trick for the adversaries. He therefore discarded a spade, and had no trouble subsequently in taking 10 tricks for the game.

Note, however, that if he had trumped, the four small trumps in West's hand would have assumed tremendous proportions since South, being unable to draw all of the trumps, would lose control of the hand and would be very fortunate indeed to win nine tricks. South, incidentally, was actually sacrificing nothing by the spade discard as dummy's diamonds could take care of only two of South's losing spades anyway, and he was at the same time insuring his contract except against a 5-1 or 6-0 trump division. But even though the spade discard might give up a potential overtrick it would still be the correct play.

Gay Crowd at Horse Show Opening

AFTER HEARING ALL ABOUT the excellent entries in the seventh annual 110th Cavalry Horse Show the interest now centers upon the first night of this gala event which is fast assuming the size and prominence of the old Boston Garden shows . . . The crowd arrived early to fill the boxes but remembering last year's cold shivers and muddy runways few of the fair sex braved the hazards of wearing flimsy evening dresses and more sturdy tweeds than glittering lames appeared . . .

One of the gayest group of railbirds cheering lustily for entries in the hunter class included tiny Lindy Watson cuddled up in white bunny fur . . . (she says she will go home to visit her mother soon after Christmas to avoid the cold winter months of New England) . . . Freddie Grinnell, Jane Bancroft in an olive green rough woolen suit, Nathaniel Clark, John Roosevelt, and Catherine Blake, very well turned out in black with a Persian lamb coat . . .

Nearby in a box party were Mr. and Mrs. George Saltonstall West of Chestnut Hill with Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson, a round gold mesh collar adorning her simple black frock, and two sub-sub-debs, who were unusually absorbed in the entertainment . . . Mary West and Josephine Murray, both in scarlet tweeds with matching sweaters . . . Miss Eleanora Sears stopped to give them a cheery greeting . . . Miss Sears, no seldom seen at sporting events in any garb but the traditional rough tweeds, arrived for her role as a judge of a special class, in a very feminine attire of silky black caracul coat with a jaunty hat . . .

A true hunter, and dressed for the part in a vivid scarlet coat over white breeches, Hugh Bancroft dodged over to his wife's box for a few words of encouragement from her . . . Mrs. Bancroft thought the occasion worthy of formal dress and appeared with a becoming new coiffure and wearing a soft pink satin gown . . .

Barbara Frost in Kelly Green Suit

MISCHIEVOUSLY DODGING THE CAMERA MEN, Miss Barbara Frost disappeared to sit with her father. They made a very handsome pair, with daughter in a Kelly green suit . . .

Winners all . . . either with their entries or their costumes, were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Farnsworth, Mrs. N. Penrose Hallowell, Jr., winner of a fourth in a highly competitive class; Mrs. Fred Dearborn, who until recently was Miss Pauline Moore, in a midnight blue afternoon frock flecked with gold; Mrs. William C. Cox in mustard tunic, Barbara Letts and Shirley Knowles, members of the Jacobs Hill Hunt team, perched on the rail at a precarious corner of the turf; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Umland and Mrs. John Kennedy of the "Kindly Be Happy" store; Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French arm in arm with Mr. and Mrs. William C. Coburn, the latter in a petunia bagheera velvet gown under white ermine; Mrs. William H. Danforth in a silvery evening wrap, with her youngster, Teddy, and Mrs. John C. Hopewell . . . Mrs. Herbert Bramwell Shaw in a midnight blue chiffon gown under black velvet, the yellow bereted attendants, the hundreds of uniformed men and the good happy spirit which always prevails at a horse show . . .

The show continues tomorrow and Saturday with one of the highlights of the entertainment being the supper dance tomorrow evening after the show.

INFLATION IS THREAT, SAYS KEMMERER

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

[illegible] of [illegible] ted and [illegible] gnashed [illegible] ence of M[illegible] chus[illegible] ers that [illegible] there [illegible] setting [illegible] taxation [illegible] dangerous [illegible] pansion of government debt will result in currency [illegible] credit [illegible] that [illegible] spe[illegible] If the p[illegible] forced to [illegible] the cost of government financing through taxation a very different situation would result. Then the very agreeable sensation of better times, always falsely assumed in the early stages of inflation, would be negatived and probably replaced by a public hue and cry for a curtailment of expenditures. In this connection it is significant that some recent Washington dispatches hint at administration attempts to prevent a tax rise.

Edwin W. Kemmerer

Shorts: With such profound economic thinkers as Professor Kemmerer viewing the situation as they do the recent strength and activity in metals is understandable . . . And coincides nicely with our comments on the gold shares the other day . . . We continue to think that a fair proportion of funds in metals, particularly golds is wise . . . And will continue so as long as leftist advisors are close to administration leaders even though the public remarks of these same leaders are intended to restore confidence to business and industry . . . The latter will soon demand action not words.

The big stock ma[illegible] ing additions [illegible] ward path from here on is strewn with obstacles in the form of stock offerings. The industrials in fact are having a hard time struggling into [illegible] The rails [illegible] merce [illegible] rates [illegible] of bu[illegible] who counted on the rails [illegible] drive to [illegible]

Notes: We are taking a very cautious view of share prices in here and will avoid the high priced industrials particularly . . . Those issues noted last Saturday in particular show signs of tiredness . . . Which probably would not be present if larger reactions had taken place early this week . . . The rails we are interested in appear to be safe enough for holding in a sudden reaction . . . The preferred rail shares recommended as a group might be disposed of if better than average profit opportunities exist . . . As they do in some issues.

Our participation index has dropped off quite sharply of late. As this took place on increased turnover it heightens the outlook for a [illegible] since it suggests either [illegible] with offerings or a gradual withdrawal by large accounts [illegible] most of their holdings [illegible] summer [illegible] other [illegible] war [illegible] a heavy [illegible] tape [illegible] making [illegible] rent [illegible]

Briefs: After a healthy purging the list could resume its uptrend in somewhat better fashion [illegible] that of the last few weeks . . . By this we mean a new rise would be more uniform and not so halting once the supply areas of the last two years are passed . . . We think this because of the reassuring manner in which a number of backward stocks have made a turn from a downtrend to an uptrend of late . . . International Harvester and Western Union are two shining examples.

SHARES MIXED AT CLOSE OF TRADING

New York, Dec. 7—Persistent profit taking in the rails and industrials gave the stock market a decidedly irregular appearance today.

While the New York City Traction staged a [illegible] during the [illegible] improvement was only temporary, giving way to [illegible] tendencies in the final hour.

UTILITIES QUIET

Trading slowed down appreciably on the irregularity and losses were held to about a point.

The early burst of strength in the tractions which carried Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Interborough Rapid Transit up from 1 to 2 points was inspired by the reports that New York city had set a price on the B.-M.-T. properties. This was later denied by Samuel Seabury.

Utilities were sluggish with Consolidated Gas, Public Service and others fractionally lower. Sentiment on the power and light shares also was slightly less favorable because of the adverse Duke Power-T. V. A. decision.

LOADINGS DOWN

The coppers reflected rumors of an international curtailment conference here next month as well as hopes of better sales.

Freight car loadings for the week ended December 1, recorded a more than seasonal decline of 73,195 cars under the previous week. The total of 488,118 was the smallest since the latter part of December last year. It was 11,478 under the like 1933 week and 58,977 less than the corresponding week of 1932. The Thanksgiving holiday accounted for part of the decline.

In addition to the failure of car loadings to show the hoped-for improvement, the carriers were confronted with further opposition to their plea for an increase in freight rates.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the hearing on the roads' petition for an advance in shipping charges on specific commodities, that the grant of higher rates on agricultural and other products would delay recovery without giving the transportation systems the revenue gains they anticipated.

Most market commentators were still friendly to stocks, as a whole, but it was pointed out that discrimination apparently is once more the trading keynote and that in such a situation more than the usual amount of caution is advisable.

Commission houses with foreign connections reported that only a moderate amount of business was coming from abroad, although it was noted that European buying was a little better than the selling. Investment trusts were also said to have been somewhat more active recently and considerable switching of holdings has been evident.

Financial analysts expressed the opinion that the growing strength of all classes of bonds during the past week or so has done much to sustain the favorable sentiment toward stocks. It was recalled that senior securities have usually taken the lead in most advancing markets.

Cotton Steady in New York Trading

New York, Dec. 7 (INS)—Dealings in the cotton market today were of a typical pre-bureau nature with futures fluctuating in a narrow range virtually unchanged from the previous close.

Around the noon hour prices were unchanged to 2 points higher. December was unchanged at 12.46, March unchanged at 12.55, May up 2 at 12.57 and July up 1 at 12.50.

Dollar Higher at Close in London

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—The United States dollar gained ⅛ cent to the pound today, closing at 4.95 3-16 to the pound as compared to yesterday's close of 4.95 11-16. The opening was at 4.96⅛.

The French franc closed at 75.12 to the pound as compared to yesterday's close of 75.18.

Baseball Fathers Consider Dog-Racing For Braves Field

Club Prepares to Play Lone Hand And Seeks Franchise

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE FLAMING, NAKED ISSUE at the winter major league meeting in New York next week is not so much baseball as it is whippet racing at Braves Field, and whether the ball daddies and young Mr. Ford Frick, the freshman president of the National League, are going to permit the slinky sausage hounds with their airflow snouts and spaghetti tails to chase wooden rabbits around Judge Fuchs' property.

Austen Lake

The ball daddies may just as well save their back teeth and tonsils, because the Braves intend to run the weasel hounds, if and when they get a franchise and can make a dicker to move their ball club to Fenway Park.

BASEBALL HAS always curled its lip at racing as a degenerate sport and a fungus growth on the community, which attracts the more unscrupulous element of customers who are deemed to be very low morally.

This is a defensive form of snobbery on the theory that a man who frequents the sub-levels of the race world is no fit companion in the moral heights of baseball. There seems to be, in the minds of the ball daddies, no twilight zone.

Some years ago Judge Landis, as baseball's moral censor, slapped John McGraw and Charles Stoneham of the Giants loose from their Cuban horse-track holdings. And recently he adjured Rogers Hornsby, an addicted odds-player, to go and sin no more.

The Judge said then, in his crackly, sandpaper voice, that baseball and racing do not mix, that no man can serve two masters, and that anyone who would gamble would break open his baby's china pig bank.

But whippet racing at Braves Field, as outlined by Judge Fuchs, means only the leasing of the park for a term of years to the dog people, and the Braves will amply vacate and leave it to the Honest Wilbes and Big-Hearted Eddie to exploit in a spirit of pure unselfishness for the public's comfort.

THE BRAVES ARE TAKING A RISK in this, because the spending public is likely to curdle and go sour on whippet racing and leave the Honest Willies and Big-Hearted Eddie suddenly paupers, with nothing but their bare skin and very little of that. In which case the Braves will have to take back their property, clear it of race rubbish and eat their losses.

During the Florida land boom I used to mooch off to the dog tracks near St. Petersburg and lay modest wagers on the sleek hounds. Then the tourists were very busy having a year's fun in a few weeks' time, and pleasure was the principle industry. Which means that a fair representation of the criminally-inclined population hurried down to the spending belt on the chance of soaking up some of the loose cash.

Although illegal by state law, betting was conducted openly, just as prohibition had been frankly discarded out of consideration for the paying guests, who had bales of currency to burn.

And so the dog tracks, like the other illicit ventures which required paying secret tributes to the authorities, fell into the control of avaricious and morbid persons who knew how to play tricks on the public and the racing animals.

BUT WHEN MONEY NO longer showered down and the natives took to spending wooden script the professional gamblers came down from the North and experienced great anguish to find that the authorities, with whom they expected to do business as usual, had suddenly buttered themselves over with virtue and threatened to slip a halter on anybody who so much as set up a shell game.

So the dog race business shook out a few of its human fleas and assumed a quasi-respectability. This was helped greatly when the government bagged Al Capone, who was patron saint to the snake-bellied hounds and fast gaming a monopoly of the industry, which he ceded to his heirs when he was put under Federal glass in Atlanta.

WELL, YOU ASK WHETHER I favor dog racing at Braves Field? And I say "yes" because the sovereign people of this state have voted for their own mortification in bringing the canine-robots here and therefore my protest is merely a voice crying in the wilderness like a thin thread of sound.

And also because Judge Fuchs, being a sound, reputable citizen whose wealth has leaked down the sink through an unselfish attempt to build a winning ball club, deserves the privilege of holding his hat under the public's money bung.

I say this in the spirit that, if the people voted to sell hand grenades and Mill's bombs to little children it would be nice to have them manufactured by a creditable citizen in moral standing. The kids might last longer.

THERE HAVE BEEN MURMURS of outrage from residents and business men in the neighborhoods of the proposed dog tracks in the belief that they will attract a hoodlum element and commit a vulgar clamor, like shouting out loud.

This is very foolish. Because a ball park emits a deep roar every afternoon of the summer and its approaches are pretty badly fouled by rowdy persons selling peanuts, hot dogs and score cards. Also there are newsboys hollering their papers.

But dog racing is one of the grimmest pursuits known to man and, save for a brief yipping of the people and dogs as the tail light of the wooden bunny begins its preliminary coasting, it is conducted in dead, breathless silence, broken oly by the hysterical gulps of some bettor as his money-dog deserts the race in mid-flight to brawl with a rival in a swirl of fuzz and fury.

I FIND THE BASEBALL-DADDIES show a fine old hypocrisy in snubbing the races as a form of moral depravity, because any sunny afternoon during the ball season, at any major league park, you will find a herd of straw-hatted, shirt-sleeved gents, huddling in the right field stands, betting big and little sums on the probabilities of the game. These the baseball people regard as none of their affair and a problem for the clergy or public prosecutors.

Joe Cronin Pays Fenway First Visit as Red Sox Leader for Conference With Eddie Collins

Joe Cronin says hello—a personal and intimate hello—to Boston on his arrival this morning from Washington. Joe has been to the Hub before but this is his first visit to Boston in his role as manager of the Red Sox.

The new Sox leader discusses plans and prospects with Eddie Collins in the Fenway offices of the Hose. The pair have plenty of changes in prospect but Collins says it is all up to Joseph. Cronin is anxious to obtain at least one right handed pitcher of outstanding merit and a second baseman who is a leader in his field. What Joe wants the Yawkey bankroll will get. Sox Pilot to Give Dahlgren, Rookie, Call at 1st Base

By JOE CASHMAN

Joseph Edward Cronin, the most expensive bit of merchandise in baseball, [illegible] today made his first appearance in Boston since he was named leader of the Red Sox as a result of the deal [illegible]

"All the baseball men on the Coast tell me that he is the best defensive first baseman since Hal Chase," Cronin said with enthusiasm. He has hit over .300 both years he has played on the Coast club. He knocked in 110 runs one season and 136 runs the other. He played 160 games one year and 186 games the next. He is durable and has a real punch."

Cronin said he intended to add [illegible] to the Sox [illegible] He would not be [illegible] special concessions [illegible] Buddy Myer of the Senators was another [illegible] sacker receiving attention.

Cronin said he had enough left-handed pitching strength on his club, but would make every effort to snare a top notch right-hander or two at the league meetings which begin in Gotham next Tuesday.

He was almost positive that Al Schacht would be obtained as his third base coach, he said, although he had not yet closed with the funny clown.

SEES AL SCHACHT

"I will see Al at the New York meetings," Joe said, "and undoubtedly will come to terms with him. That is, if he has not signed with any other club. He is almost certain to be with me next year."

He would make no comment on the identity of his first base coach.

"I can't tell all at this time," he laughingly told the scribes. "I want to have some more news for you fellows when I return from New York next week."

Cronin arrived this morning from Washington where he had stopped with his wife to pay a visit to Clark Griffith. His wife did not accompany him to Boston.

M'KENNEY TO TEACH HISTORY AT B. C. STARTING MONDAY

By Walter Kiley

"Tex" Hill during [illegible] gentleman with flowing [illegible] Professor Joseph Mackenzie of the Boston College staff a specimen [illegible] Texas [illegible] tory."

"Professor" [illegible] anxious and [illegible] for our friend's [illegible] Coach M. Kenneth [illegible] of the Eagles [illegible]

"Let me explain for your personal edification and enlightenment" our pal snaps back.

And so we found out that starting next Monday McKenney will be installed as a full Federal member of the faculty, professor in his own right, with the usual [illegible] and cleats giving way to the dignified sombre black of the academic gown.

So, too was announced the elevation of McKenney's [illegible] as far as being head football coach at Boston College is concerned.

His appointment to the history department in a pedagogical capacity is a simple proof of the high esteem in which he is regarded from President Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., who confirms the appointment, down through the ranks of the entire faculty.

McKenney, who majored in modern history and is at present taking graduate courses towards a Ph.D., secured his A.M. some years back.

So, from now on, the genial Allston native will divide his time between the serious teaching professions of football and history, with his term of years at the helm of Boston's gridiron destiny slated to extend [illegible] as many years as he cares to continue as head coach.

Major Frank Cavanaugh, McKenney's predecessor, taught law at the Heights during his term of coaching there.

McKenney's services in the classroom will be required eight hours each week, two periods every weekday except Wednesday which is to be his free day.

He has already immersed himself in preparation for his opening class next Monday.

The opening which he is to fill was made largely possible when Fr. Frank V. Sullivan, S. J., faculty director of athletics, was relieved of some of his teaching duties in order to devote more time to his out-of-class activities.

The Eagles' coach is the third Greater Boston College football mentor who [illegible] their services on the football field may lack some of the bright lustre of the present, have turned their thoughts to the permanency of teaching as a profession.

The others are Lew Manly of Tufts, who specializes in economics, and Al McCoy of Northeastern, a teacher of English.

Baer Is Unlikely to Defend His Heavyweight Title for Another Year

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1934, by Universal)

New York, Dec. 7—Max Baer, heavyweight champion of the world, may not defend his title in 1935 the writer is advised by a gentleman who might know what he is talking about.

Max Baer, and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, do not see any challenger in the present group of so-called contenders who is [illegible] to draw a real heavyweight championship gate.

They feel that if they wait another year some contender formidable enough to be attractive to the pugilistic fans in a championship bout may be along to produce a gate of old fashioned proportions.

The writer is inclined to think this is sound reasoning.

The dec[illegible] of interest and receipts in heavyweight championship bouts has been largely due to the attempt to put the title up annually, even when the contender is of mediocre calibre, both in fistic and drawing ability.

A sort of moratorium of a year might be the best thing that could happen in the heavyweight division. The deferred gate would probably be three times what the promoters can hope to draw this year with Baer and any one of the current contenders.

The annual heavyweight championship bout is a comparatively new idea, anyway.

It began with the retirement of Gene Tunney and the staging of the bout for the vacated title between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey.

This bout, won by Schmeling on a foul, was recognized by the New York boxing commission as a championship bout. It was promoted by the Milk Fund, in conjunction with Madison Square Garden.

Sacramento, Cal.—Frankie Marino, 139, San Francisco, outpointed Kid Chocolate, Reno, 144 (6).

Tacoma, Wash.—Frankie Wallitis, 198, Roslyn, Wash., knocked out Jack Darnell, 202, Washington, D. C. (1).

BROWN TO PLAY N. U. QUINTET TOMORROW

The Brown University Bruins, already with a victory to their credit, visit Boston Saturday night to meet Coach Al McCoy's Northeastern basketball quintet at the Huntington Avenue Y.

A[illegible] reserve seats have been sold out for the court contest, and the great demand for tickets indicates that the game will be a complete s[illegible]

McCoy has solved his forward and center problem by converting two backs.

Hy Burstein of Chelsea, sensational frosh back two years ago, will team with Captain Heath Morse of Beverly. Ted Bialkowski, Salem 1933 freshman guard, will play the pivot.

Mettie Rice, Chelsea all-scholastic, and Al Melville, Quincy veteran will be at the defense posts.

The Husky mentor has also been working with five men who will comprise a complete second team. They are George Harris, Attleboro and Johnny Barone, New Haven Ct. forwards; Charlie Whitney, Beverly, center; Jay Hart, Hackettstown, N. J., and Eddie Quinlin, Somerville backs.

Brown will pit Captain Howard Floren and Burbank at forwards; [illegible] Kirshon, grid captain, and Nate Sandper at backs, with Ken Kennedy at center.

The game shapes up as a sparkling offensive grid show. Salem's attack, hitting on high through the final stages of the season, is ready. Gloucester pins its hopes on the lightning fast zig zag ball toting by Teddy Williams, a great running back.

Salem was a slight favorite in the odds but there were plenty of fans predicting that Williams would break the game wide open. He scored 111 points during the regular season, against first class teams.

AL NEIMAN IS WILSON'S BEST BET AT EPSOM DOWNS TODAY

WEEDIDIT GIVEN CALL IN FIRST AT HOUSTON

By Dave Wilson

BEST BET—AL NEIMAN

Al Neiman, a galloping winner of only a few days back, is favored as the safest betting proposition at Epsom Downs this afternoon.

FIRST RACE

Weedidit, Mars Palatine, Haps Boy

I find it hard to go past WEEDIDIT in this affair.

SECOND RACE

Secret Tryst, Prince Sulieman, Forest Avenue

SECRET TRYST was barely nosed out by Lona Miss last out, but for suffering rough tactics from the winner during the stretch run, she might have won that affair.

THIRD RACE

Royal Leon, Coya, Fredrick

I'm going to give ROYAL LEON another chance. That last race was not as poor as the cold dope would indicate. COYA figures better than FREDRICK.

FOURTH RACE

Zenka, Rock Point, Grayback

ZENKA has been especially prepped for a race of this sort. The work tab says he was never better.

FIFTH RACE

Al Neiman, Dominant Miss, Cog Air

AL NEIMAN will have DOMINANT MISS to down for main honors. The latter turns in a corking effort every now and then.

SIXTH RACE

Leonard Wilson, Countess Ann, Brilliant Duke

LEONARD WILSON is entitled to a three star call in a field of this sort. COUNTESS ANN, a speedy trick, may hang on long enough to save the place from BRILLIANT DUKE.

SEVENTH RACE

Fair Image, Celiba, Bright Melody

This is the toughest affair of the day. My figure to call the finish FAIR IMAGE, CELIBA and BRIGHT MELODY.

EIGHTH RACE

Highest Point, Axial, American Queen

HIGHEST POINT is right at tops, as may be attested by his most recent efforts. AXIAL and AMERICAN QUEEN

BADGRO LOST TO N. Y. GIANTS

By Associated Press

New York, Dec. 7—With their National Professional League championship game with the Chicago Bears only two days away, the New York Giants have discovered they will have to get along without Morris (Red) Badgro, crack end.

Badgro suffered a fracture of a small bone in his right leg in last Sunday's game with Philadelphia and is definitely out of the championship playoff.

Badgro is the fourth major casualty of the season so far as the Giants are concerned. Glen Campbell, regular end, underwent an operation for appendicitis before the campaign and didn't play at all. Stuart Clancy suffered a broken leg a month ago, and Harry Newman, All-America quarterback at Michigan, went out with two fractured vertebrae.

The Bears, likewise, will be handicapped, for it appears doubtful whether Beattie Feathers, great back from Tennessee, will see any service in Sunday's game.

MISS CATALAN CHARLES TOWN BEST BET

Selections Made for Fast Track

BEST BET—MISS CATALAN

Charlestown, W. Va., Dec. 7—Miss Catalan, the fleet daughter of Catalan, needs only an intelligent ride in order to grace the winners' circle in the mile and one-sixteenth of the seventh race, here tomorrow afternoon.

The Mrs. K. Newman colorbearer was victim of poor racing luck when she finished third behind Dark Vision and Corline on the opening day. Tomorrow she is dropping six pounds off that race.

Stella B. Overwood, Bright Girl

FIRST RACE—$200, maiden two-year-olds, five furlongs (11):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Dudley Gay | 115 | xSandalan | 112 |
| Hey Fay | 112 | Sweet Vesta | 112 |
| Tittle McGee | 112 | Lucky Lil | 112 |
| Bridal Star | 112 | Wildheart | 112 |
| Overwood | 112 | Miss Bolin | 112 |
| Knightsmere | 112 | Mistress Jo | 112 |
| aBelle | 112 | Tiny Miss | 112 |
| aMrs. F. Cook and A. L. Smith entry. | | | |

STELLAR B. turned a half in :49 for this. OVERWOOD showed high speed in his last race at Bowie. BRIGHT GIRL should break into the picture.

FOXTEE, PHYLLIS C, JINNIE

SECOND RACE—$300, claiming, two-year-olds, six and one-half furlongs (11):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| aMrs. F. Cook and A. L. Smith entry | | | |
| xJinnee | 106 | xMiss Pal | 103 |
| xPhyllis C | 103 | Tutu | 106 |
| Disruption | 108 | xSlampire | 106 |
| Final Body | 113 | Aprily | 112 |
| Coal | 112 | | |

Must give FOXTEE another chance. The J. D. Baker filly was a hot choice in the wagering on opening day, but failed to run her usual race. She can do lots better. PHYLLIS C shapes up as the main danger. JINNIE has been working well.

UMA, SANDY JOE, DUNORA

THIRD RACE—$300, claiming, three-year-olds and up, seven furlongs (11):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Uma | 109 | Tiffin | 109 |
| Bumazoo | 106 | Gunhurst | 112 |
| xBunting | 107 | Sand Flyer | 109 |
| Sandy Joe | 109 | Dunora | 112 |
| Overwood | 107 | Uncle Dreams | 112 |
| White Coal | 109 | Wanasita | 112 |
| Bright Bar | 104 | Finola | 109 |

UMA has only to run back to that last winning race at Sportsmans Park in order to earn brackets. SANDY JOE displayed high speed in placing to Valdosta last out. DUNORA will be dangerous, if able to get off the also eligible list.

Tulyries Wand, Scotty Don, Hogarty

FOURTH RACE—$200, claiming, three-year-olds and up, seven furlongs (11):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Landler | 106 | xPergola | 101 |
| Tuleries Wand | 109 | Hogarty | 110 |
| Hogarty | 110 | Happy | 109 |
| Red Rube | 108 | Changeable | 109 |
| Scotty Don | 109 | xHelens Aubi | 107 |
| Miss Ladde | 112 | Brew Sort | 112 |
| xImp | 112 | Brew Sort | 112 |

TULYRIES WAND vs the clocker's three-star special. The dope disclosed that she was a mighty shifty animal on the small-time tracks the past summer. SCOTTY DON figures close up to the top one in my dope. HOGARTY should go well.

TRIOLET, DARK VISION, ROLLICK

FIFTH RACE—$300, "The Charles Town Purse," three-year-olds and up, one and one-eighth miles (9):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| xAirway | 107 | xRollick | 110 |
| Heraldo High | 112 | Appear | 103 |
| xWorthington | 110 | xSingle Keger | 104 |
| Runway | 112 | Dark Vision | 115 |
| xTriolet | 104 | | |

The Christmas boys are sending a mighty fit thoroughbred postward in TRIOLET. Her trials so far were little short of sensational considering the wretched condition of the track. DARK VISION and ROLLICK were both easy winners on the opening day and figure very dangerous. They are rated as named.

Mrs. Foster, Mint Magi, Zombro

SIXTH RACE—$300, claiming, four-year-olds and up, one and one-sixteenth miles (12):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Southland Lod | 111 | Stage | 108 |
| xZombro | 106 | Hot Cakes | 112 |
| Coat Tails | 111 | xJim Magi | 106 |
| xHeain | 106 | Dairy Range | 106 |
| Princess Elsie | 108 | Big Grace | 108 |
| Brown Wren | 105 | Gracie | 108 |
| xMrs. Foster | 108 | | |

MRS. FOSTER, a frequent winner on the small tracks in Canada the past year, gets top rating here. That last race was in the nature of a conditioner and may be tossed into discard. If any contention is given to the above it will come under the name of MINT MAGI, a speedy number of many good races.

ZOMBRO will be on the front end as far as he goes.

Miss Catalan, Fife, Corvine

SEVENTH RACE—$200, claiming, four-year-olds and up, one and one-sixteenth miles (12):

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| xPeanie | 109 | Miss Catalan | 111 |
| Post Brigade | 113 | xCorvine | 109 |
| Fife | 113 | Fragonne | 108 |
| xWild Kitty | 109 | McDonald H. | 107 |
| Fierce | 113 | xMiss Ann | 104 |
| Fife | 113 | Fragonne | 108 |

If anything upsets my dope and hands MISS CATALAN a defeat it will likely be FIFE. The latter was a dead short mare on the opening day. CORVINE drubbed the top one last out.

TABERSKI GIVES CUE EXHIBITION TONIGHT

By ED COGSWELL

Frank Taberski, seven times world pocket billiard champion, will entertain tonight at the South Station billiard parlors. Following his exhibition there will be one hour given to a free instruction of the game.

It will be a treat to witness Taberski drop the balls into the pockets, for he ranks among the foremost players in the world.

He first became the world's champion in 1916 and then gathered in the crown the two following years. In 1925 he was once more on top, then missed one season in keeping the title only to come to the front over all opposition in 1927, '28 and '29.

In a coast to coast tour, Taberski won 307 consecutive victories and has a high run of 271, made in exhibition. This is a great opportunity for the devotees of the game to sharpen up on their shots.

Being a master artist, Taberski is very interesting in pointing out the defects and how to overcome them in anybody's game.

So many women have taken up bowling at the South Station alleys that Bill Winch has alloted them an entire alley for their own personal use; no mere man being permitted even to peek in the keyhole. This privilege has resulted in the forming of five women's leagues, as follows: First National Bank, World Board of Trade, Spencer Chain, Fallon Field Tennis of Roslindale, and the South Station Postal.

The leading woman bowler at these alleys is Florence Anderson. In the semifinals of the November 3280 Bowlaway rolloff she finished just one position back of the two top men who qualified, rolling 116 in her second string. In getting on the board she turned in a score of 359, with one string of 160. And all of this when competing against men bowlers.

Here are the correct answers!

How many of the questions on page 4 did you guess right?

1. From New York to Chicago—1,691,480 yards! The woolens annually used in Bond Clothes would make a solid carpet for this entire distance (and incidentally this vast purchase gives you the maximum savings permitted by the NRA Woolen Code).

2. James Cagney (short and stocky), Guy Kibbe (stout), Slim Summerville (long and lanky). All 3 can easily be fitted from Bond's big group of "hard to fit" sizes.

3. Bond Clothes employ 1500 people 52 weeks a year in their 3-acre New Brunswick plant for only one reason—to keep up with the demand for Bond suits and overcoats.

4. Buy at Bond's—and you'll be served by a factory-trained expert who knows how to fit your clothes as though they were made for you.

5. Rochester! And because Bond's own and operate a six-story plant in that city, you can now enjoy the luxury of finest Rochester quality without paying a fortune for it.

6. You always get Two Trousers with every Bond suit—at no extra charge! This is your suit's insurance policy for a long life, and a happy one.

7. Ask the thousands of men who "charge it", at Bonds!

8. This popular charge account service is Bond's Ten Payment Plan. You pay nothing extra to use it!

Cash-in on these exclusive Bond features—right now!

$25 $30 $35

*except Tuxedos

Official All-Scholastic Eleven Announced Tomorrow

By Bill Connell

The greatest scholastic football team ever assembled makes its appearance exclusively in the sports pages of the Boston Evening American tomorrow.

Named by the American All-Scholastic Board of six famed coaches, this team takes preeminent position as the Official All-School eleven.

Coaches, players and sports fans have awaited this team since the start of the 1934 football campaign when the formation of the Official Board was announced.

Six school coaches, among the best known in the land, comprise the board. Five are the senior coaches in their respective districts, and the sixth entering the group is coach of the largest city school's sports groups at Boston English.

The board members are Edward "Skip" ShSerlock of Hyde Park high, dean of the school sports teachers and a noted football official; Bill Brederick of Salem high, builder of champion elevens for 25 years; Jim Manfredo of Haverhill, a great coach for more than 20 years; Charley Dickerman of Somerville, dean of Suburban coaches and a keen sports observer; Fred Dejergren of Arlington, for more than 20 years a college and school coach second to none; Bill Ohrenberger of Boston English, a former B. C. star, coach and scout who has had marked success, coaching all sports at English, and as a football official.

CHECKED EVERY PLAYER

No phantom board was this, with each member mailing in a list of votes for players at the end of the season after haphazard observance.

Instead, the six gathered four times during the season for conferences at the Hotel Touraine. Each meeting started early in the evening, and lasted until long after midnight with the board members comparing notes, discussing each player of marked ability, planning ahead to watch and have scouted those players whose ability was not fully certified.

Last Friday evening, when all reports had been checked and the team settled, the board members breathed sighs of relief, but agreed that the effort had been worthwhile. So did this writer, Secretary of the Board.

The Official All team has no weakness. It is a credit to the board. Every boy on the first team ranks as a prospective college star.

Boys who missed first team ranking need feel no rancor. There were dozens of candidates for every position and so there must be some disappointments. And so fine is the board-selected team that many players who just missed out are still correctly ranked as outstanding football players.

BEST TEAM EVER

Certainly there was no prejudice for or against any school or district in the selection of the official team. Every coach on the board was at liberty to name any player, whether of his own team or not.

Yet one of the most interesting sidelights of each meeting of the board to this writer was in the utter fairness with which the coaches at various times revealed the weaknesses of boys on their own squads, as well as the strong points.

This great team is no "padded" group, as its membership will reveal tomorrow.

It's a great team. The best school All-Scholastic team ever, in the opinion of the board's secretary who has selected many All-Scholastic teams himself.

So don't miss this colorful, authoritative All-Scholastic team. Order your copy of tomorrow's Boston Evening American today, for the advance reservations at many newsstands are far above the usual number of papers ordered.

IRISH MAT ACE IN DEMAND

Mr. Boston Says:—

$100,000 for O'Mahoney

New Mat Sensation

Carroll Buys Shucco

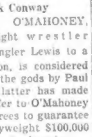
By Jack Conway

DANIEL O'MAHONEY, Irish heavyweight wrestler who held Strangler Lewis to a draw in London, is considered as a gift from the gods by Paul Bowser. The latter has made an amazing offer to O'Mahoney in which he agrees to guarantee the Irish heavyweight $100,000 for six matches in America.

When Bowser says he will put 100 grand on the line for a grappler, he keeps his agreement. Paul is the nearest thing to a promoter to the late Tex Rickard I have met in my ramblings around the sports world.

O'Mahoney is a former member of the Irish Free State army. He is only 21 years of age, which means that his athletic future is very much in front of him. Last summer O'Mahoney defeated the famous Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan at tossing the 56-pound weight.



Mr. Boston

Lewis, of course, has gone back quite a bit, but he still possesses enough ability to beat the average run of heavyweight wrestlers. In fact, the old Strangler stepped in at Jeff Dickson's flossy wrestling club in Paris recently and pinned Henri DeGlane, much to the amusement of the Frenchman's followers.

There is some controversy over the ending of the O'Mahoney-Lewis bout. Associated Press dispatches from London say the contest ended in a draw, but O'Mahoney claims a victory. He declares Lewis backed out of the ring and refused to come out and wrestle for the deciding fall.

Curley Seeks O'Mahoney

JACK CURLEY, who promotes wrestling in the New York Garden, has also entered the field for O'Mahoney's services. He feels that a great Irish heavyweight would restore interest, and wrestling in New York.

Meanwhile Bowser is waiting to get a reply from O'Mahoney. He cannot conceive of how an athlete could pass up a $100,000 guarantee these days.

"If O'Mahoney is as good a wrestler as they tell me he is," said Bowser, "he will have the mat game booming as much as it did during the time Sonnenberg held the title. Any 21-year-old youngster who can hold Lewis even must have real ability.

"If we don't believe I am making a mistake in offering him $100,000 for six bouts. All I ask is the right to name his opponents."

Dan Carroll Buys Shucco

I UNDERSTAND Dan Carroll has virtually closed a deal under the terms of which he will take over the management of Tony Shucco, North End light heavyweight. The purchase price is $1000.

Shucco has been rated with the world's leading light heavyweights for several years. He won from Maxie Rosenbloom at the time the latter was world's champion and did not get the title as he was obliged to enter the ring over weight. Shucco is a fair boxer and is able to punch from any angle.

As soon as the deal is officially closed, Shucco will go gunning for a match with Bob Olin, who won the light heavyweight title from Maxie Rosenbloom.

Macaluso After Londos

LEN MACALUSO is no confident he will conquer Ed Don George at the Garden next Friday night that he has asked Paul Bowser to sign him for a tussle with Jim Londos. Victories over George and Londos would give Macaluso undisputed possession of the world's heavyweight wrestling title.

Macaluso has been doing his preliminary training in Buffalo. He will arrive here early next week. He will try out his famous flying act on a specially prepared "dummy." He believes George will prove a victim of his vicious tackle.

CorumHits.700asSeer, Wins $10,000 and Settles for One

By Bill Corum

New York, Dec. 7—On April 1—a most appropriate date—of each year this bureau attempts to call the turn on the major sports events of the next eight months.

Last spring, when we published our annual "April fool predictions," a certain Mr. Clem McCarthy, turf expert and radio announcer extraordinary, rushed to his typewriter and promptly quoted us a set of odds against our selections for 1934.

Mr. McCarthy's prices against our feed-box tips were liberal, ranging anywhere from 2 to 1 to 200 to 1. So optimist that we are, we snatched up the gauntlet he had so brashly tossed in our direction. In short, we made him a mind bet of $1000 on each of our published predictions.

But when, along about mid-October, it became apparent that he was going to pay us approximately $10,000,000, we cordially agreed to settle for one dollar cash and the first dinner to be served at our favorite rendezvous.

Now this column can guess as wrong as the next one, has proved it, and will again. We aim to be a rule to be a good sport about bad predictions and never to crow overly much about good ones.

If any sports writer could call every event perfectly, it wouldn't be sport. It would be "the business," and we believe now when I say that almost no major sports events are fixed. Not one per cent over the years.

So the next time you hear shoreboddy say "those sports are always wrong," you might show him this reprinted verbatim on December 7 from the New York Journal of March 31.

I unblushingly predict:

That the Yankees will win the American League pennant and the St. Louis Cardinals the National League flag. (30 per cent correct.)

That a horse by the name of Sir Thomas will win the Kentucky Derby. (Wrong.)

That Max Baer will knock out Primo Carnera to become the undisputed champion of the world. (Right.)

That Jimmy McLarnin will knock out Barney Ross. "They split in two fights, but there were no knockouts. (Wrong.)

That the managers now leading major league teams will not finish the year at the helm. (Right.)

That boxing will experience a revival all over the country. (Well, yes and no.)

PICKS MINNESOTA TO WIN

That the proposed relief to horse racing in New York will not prove any such boon as many seem to think . . . I do not believe the racing situation in this state ever will be settled until we have monopoly, or better still, rates. Racing improved under the new commission, but there still is room for greater improvement. Two days did not come back and we'll wind up with the mutuels and handicapping system.

That Yale will turn the tables this year and beat the Harvard eight-oared varsity crew on the Thames. (President Roosevelt, a Harvard man, will testify that it let Ned see it.)

That Princeton and Cornell will win the international track meet from Oxford-Cambridge in July. (Remember Bonthron?)

That the United States will keep the America's cup. (Ask Mr. Sopwith. He knows.)

That the Princeton football team will have another unbeaten season and perhaps the Ivy League championship of the Atlantic seaboard. (But not of Yale's eleven 60-minute men, unfortunately for Popsy. Wrong.)

That Minnesota will win the Big Ten title. (Yessir.)

That Stanford not only will sweep the gridirons of the far west, but that Stanford's Frankie Albert son will be the most talked of back in the country. (Two ducks with one shot, Mr. Ripley.)

That Notre Dame will come back under Elmer Layden—if not to the heights of the Rockne era—headed to make her rivals realize that they have gotta quit kicking the Irish around. Ask my coach whose team took on Elmer's boys.)

That Columbia will beat Yale in the first game of the Howard Jones son in the East. (That's what the scoreboard said, too.)

That Dartmouth will again become a serious gridiron menace under Head Coach Blank and will end the longest, most persistent jinx in the history of sport by finally beating Yale. (How very wrong on both counts.)

PROS PROVE BILL RIGHT

That Babe Ruth will not play the hundred complete games he is promising. (He didn't.)

That barring accident to one or the other, the pitching heroes of the National League will again be Carl Hubbell and Dizzy Dean. (They were.)

That Chuck Klein will not set the National League on fire with his hitting in Chicago. He's out of that Philadelphia ball park now and, though a good hitter on any field, that's bound to make a difference. (The pounding Dutchman didn't even wind up in the first 20, did he? My memory is that he just sneaked into the 300 class by the skin of his teeth.)

That professional football will continue its steady gains and, given any sort of a break in the weather, establish new attendance figures. (Try and get a couple for the Giants-Bears game at the Polo Grounds Sunday, the second time within a fortnight that Mr. Mara's lions and Mr. Halas' bears will battle each other in the world—the Bears have packed the Stoneham stocks, by the way.)

That the 500-mile Indianapolis race will come close to packing 'em in because of last year's dramatic grind. But it will prove safer this year. It can't be much more dangerous because of last year's tragic boys still going 'round and 'round. (Five were killed in '33, two in '34.)

That Horton Smith and Paul Runyan will be the big golf winners of the year, and that a young fellow named Ky Laffoon will be heard from frequently. (The pros are still playing, although Smith and Runyan haven't burned up any leagues to date. But young Mr. Laffoon came through like a champion, didn't he?)

RAWLS FOR MADISON

That the United States will win the Davis cup. (Jolly old England made this guess today, and will do it, too.)

That the St. Louis Cardinals will win the World Series. (And look out for Harvey Ross. "They split in two fights, but there were no knockouts. (Wrong.)

That before the year is over, Maxie Rosenbloom will be dethroned as light heavyweight champion. (Right.)

That the managers now leading major league teams will not finish the year at the helm. (Right.)

GRIDIRON RULES UNLIKELY TO BE ALTERED

By Walter Kiley

Opinions of members of the rules committee, well known coaches and officials, which have been trickling in from various sections of the country, would indicate that the gridiron legislation as now enforced will be left pretty much alone by the lawmakers who convene shortly for their annual meeting.

Perhaps most of the dissension which cropped up this season was directed at the lateral pass display.

Its critics felt that the liberal toning of the ball from one player to another—as employed mostly by Colgate and Southern Methodist—was killing off the importance of such fundamentals as blocking and tackling.

The white lionized whistle blowers and horn tooters added their arguments to those of the dissenting coaches.

Their major complaint, in the interest of enforcing the complicated rules, is that an official would have to be an outstanding sprinter in order to be down the field fast enough to be in the direction of each and every lateral toss.

FAILS IN MAJOR TESTS

But in the latter stages of the campaign, it was brought out forcefully that few lateral passing attempts of the multiple pass met much success with it when the sternest tests came along.

Andy Kerr's disciples neglected it almost entirely against Syracuse. Bitsers of the Marine Corps evidently discovered that a lateral passing game was little good against a well conceived and formidable power attack.

The upshot of it all is that the experts are now fairly well agreed that as long as the lateral isn't likely to dominate football, then, perhaps the rule makers will leave in that it will provide new thrills for the ever thrill-thirsty public.

Much more consideration will be paid to legislation providing for protection for the forward passer.

This department of the game and the question of whether or not the colleges should adopt the professional rule which allows that passes can be thrown from anywhere back of the line of scrimmage, instead of at least five yards, will be up to provide the committee with taxing problems.

Coaches today issue orders to their ends and linemen to crash in and "smash the living daylights out of" the opposing tackles.

This might be all right while the passer still has the ball in his grasp. The difficulty arises when the fact that the passer is just as often knocked flat by the unknown loop after he has gotten the ball away.

The theory seems to be that if they hit the passer hard and often enough, the passer will gradually noticeably weaken, his flings suffering accordingly.

It is here that many serious injuries are piling up, as the player is in no adequate position to defend himself.

Many of the coaches and officials have arrived at the conclusion that the passer should be provided with almost as much protection as the punter. Roughing into the kicker calls for a five-yard penalty and a first down. Roughing him or interfering with one is punished 15 yards from the spot of the preceding down.

BINGHAM LIKES LATERAL

They feel that there should be no protection for the passer so long as the ball is in his possession, but that the moment he lets it go, enemy hands and bodies should keep strictly away from him.

There are many in favor of passing from less than five yards back of the line of scrimmage. Most important among these is Ball from the Mid-West and the West.

Eastern coaches feel that passing from close to the line of scrimmage makes possible much more opportunity for injury.

Bill Bingham of Williams Lafford are two members of the rules committee who stand four-square in favor of the lateral.

"The lateral has restored balance to the game," states the Harvard athletic director. "I see no reason for a rule change. Coaches have been demanding help for the offense, and the lateral gives it to them. They should take advantage of it."

Bob Zuppke is one of the oldest plays in football. Langford points out, "If it were to revolutionize the game or either permanently or infinitely alter its fundamental values, it seems to me it would have done so long ago."

Northeastern Grads to Play Varsity

A team composed of alumni will give Coach Joe Bedenik's Husky hockey sextet its first test next Monday morning at the Arena. The Northeastern Forward line will be composed of Captain Ken Cahoon, Quincy, left wing; Charlie Lehmann, Hyde Park, center; John Blaiek, Ipswich, right wing. Charlie Bergquist of West Roxbury and Ralph Raymond of Jamaica Plain will cover the defense posts, with either Andy Abbott of Weymouth or John Ricker of Woburn in the nets.

This Ear—That Air

By N. F. T.

Out there among ye faithful subscribers there are those who appear to desire some sort of an "All-America Eleven of the Air" naming. Moreover, many make the request, in writing and otherwise, that the custodian of this daily dial doings colyum shall name favorite networkers for a place on the 1934 loudspeaker lineup.

Placing eleven performers of the radio realm out front, a top-notch team that is to be regarded as an eleven suggested and many more personalities may be looked for here. Meanwhile, thanks around for the compliment.

GOOZE ODDS AND ENDS

Few folks knew that the Guy Lombardo half hour (10 to 10:30) of night before last went to the rescue of America, originating in these Down East thickets. It did however, with Pat Barnes as interlocutor, journeying from New York, and WBZ-WBZA studios in the Hotel Bradford on scene of action. Somehow, it was all kept pretty much of a secret it seems . . . President Roosevelt comes on schedules on Monday night next, his voice to slide through both the NBC and CBS equipment in every section of the U. S. It's the Washington occasion of the attorney-general's conference on crime. The President will be expressing his views on hoodlum elimination in his customary not to be misunderstood terms. The time set aside is 9:30 p. m. . . . Among lusty loudspeaker laughs of the week was the one during which an announcer, enthusiastic no end, about a brand of hair tonic, wanted a jingle for concluding, then closed with "To keep you hair looking beautiful and lustrous, use it only twice a week" . . . Next, the bouquet would seeming belong to Ted Wynn for the following: "They laughed when I sat down at the piano, but upon observing the rip in the seat of his pants, they thought they'd split my sides" . . . Locally, a plan is completed whereby Phil Phil Dunn, radio and orchestra hold forth for a New England ethering, to be staged behind Keith-Boston Theater condition, promptly at 6 o'clock on the Sunday night just ahead. Hinting has it that the harmonizing of the participators shall do some special trio singsonging for Phil, as will Ed Jardon, Miriam Miller and Ted Hamilton. Genial and jovial John McNamara, the alert WBZ program director, says if "Friday the 13th" is just generally considered an unlucky day, why wouldn't it be logic to claim any Friday the 13th as just the opposite? No reason at all John, you launch the crusade and future generations will probably erect a monument to your memory. According to calendars, this would be a great day for it!

GOUNOD'S 'AVE MARIA' AIRING BY JESSICA DRAGONETTE

An always welcome announcement is word to the effect that an air artist or musical group of note has in mind to make use of the stirring "Ave Maria," by Gounod. Such advice is in hand today, and Jessica Dragonette is the soprano songstress to feature the selection (WEEI) during her concert this evening.

In addition, the popular artiste lends her vocal talents to "In a Luxembourg Garden," and the sition. "Some somewhat more modern compositions, Day I'll Fly You" from "Private Lives," the Noel Coward smash hit, Rosario Bourdon and his concert orchestra accompany Miss Dragonette and likewise contribute a variety of classic and semi-classic melody to round out the 60 minutes until 9 o'clock.

Out on the West Coast, from whence comes the "Hollywood Hotel" program highlight each Friday night, the personalities of Carol Lombard and George Raft are promised. Louella Parsons, celebrated screen scribe for your favorite evening newspaper, will introduce the two film favorites and present them in a special scene taken from "Rhumba," the newest picture in which they are co-starred. Ted Fio Rito takes tunes from the production across the coast-to-coast channels. All of which is slated (WNAC) when 9:30 comes to pass.

Again the funmaking of Phil Baker is flung to the four winds from Boston tonight, as "Blue Network" facilities of NBC pipe the program (WBZ) over the border to border ozone, between 9:30 and 10 o'clock. Just as during the past two weeks, Jacques Renard and his rhythm men provide the musical background.

PERPLEXING PROBLEM

That regular "True Story Court of Human Relations" highlight (WNAC) due this evening with 8:30, brings a more or less blase Frankie Bill labeled "My Children's Man" and the theme deals with a young lady who meets her mother after many years separation, only to find herself fascinated by her young stepfather.

There's an exceptionally impressive 45 minutes making a way out of the WAAB wave way tonight, as the 80th anniversary of Temple Israel founding in this city is observed. Bishop Henry K. Sherrill is to deliver an auspicious address which has been titled "Greetings From Our Protestant Neighbors" and a special message from Rabbi Harry Levi likewise affords the program marked color. Listeners can hear the manifestation throughout the 8 to 8:45 period.

EUROPEAN ENTRY

European disturbances and Franco-German discussions, embracing the recent assassination of Serge M. Kiroff, high Russian official, are outstanding incidents arranged for airing by "Watch of Time" program planners in their tonight (WNAC), meaning on the stroke of 9 p. m.

Jane Frohman, petite Broadway singing star, assumes the guest artist spotlight again (WBZ) when the 30 minute "Radio Guild Dramatic Review" takes place. Al Goodman and his tuna troupe do the music making and recitations are mastered by Dwight Fiske, hailed of late as the favorite quip dispenser of Park Avenue, down New York way.

HAUPTMANN TO FACE NURSES

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 7 — Betty Gow, nurse to kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., will be asked to confront Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who will be tried January 2 for the child's murder, in an effort to identify him a high state official told Universal Service, confirming an exclusive announcement by the Boston Evening American.

She will also view photographs of Hauptmann's associates, including the late Isidor Fisch, from whom he says he got ransom money.

Although it is not generally known, Miss Gow, who arrived at the Hopewell home of the Lindbergh only eight hours before the baby vanished, passed an automobile containing one or two men near the estate.

She will be brought to the United States with utmost secrecy, some time in the next two or three weeks to testify at the trial.

N. E. Farms Show Increase in Value

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—E. H. Thomson, president of the Federal Land Bank, reported today that farm real estate continued to be in steady demand in New England, New York and New Jersey. He said that prices received for land sold by the Springfield bank are higher than a year ago.

Birdmen in Contest

Determined to prevent Bruno P. Marchi, veteran Medford model plane flier from "walking away" with the Carl Dreyfus silver trophy, and most of the first prizes, contestants promise a keener fight tomorrow in the third monthly intersquadron flying contest for Junior Birdmen at South Armory, 18 Irvington street.

Bruno captured first prize of $3 cash in both the first and second contests, keeping his R. O. G. plane aloft for 5 minutes and 28 seconds in the November meet. While his time is exceptionally good for this particular model, Louis Young, of Newton Center, Levy Walba, Sydney Wallerstein and Sanford Orringer, of Dorchester, Frank A. Barrett, Jr., of Brighton, and Manuel Ford, of Roxbury, are confident they can beat it.

In addition to regular prizes tomorrow, 50 free tickets to the Paramount and Fenway theaters will be given to contestants, enabling them to see the new and exciting flying picture "Hell in the Heavens," starring Warner Baxter and depicting adventures of the Lafayette Escadrille during the World War.

The regular monthly prizes consist of $3 for first place, $2 for second, $1 for third, and 8 tickets to Loew's State Theater for fourth place. Winners of fourth prize tomorrow will see Douglas Fairbanks in "The Private Life of Don Juan" and Bruce Cabot and Judith Allen in "Men in the Night."

The competition will begin at 9:30 a. m. and close at 1 p. m. All boys and girls, who are interested are invited. There is no admission fee. More contestants and more spectators are expected at tomorrow's contest as each meet has grown in popularity.

CURLEY'S WIN COST $94,000

Receipts and expenditures for political campaigns in the recent elections filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, showed that the Curley-Saltonstall committee expended approximately $94,000, and received contributions of approximately $72,000.

Governor-elect Curley personally contributed two amounts, one of $3500 and one of $2000.

The Democratic state committee received a contribution of $5300 from United States Senator David I. Walsh, and nothing from Curley. Practically all of the contributions to the committee, listed as $15,000 during the last two years, were in the form of dues, the report said.

Richman Estate Fund Distributed

Executors of the estate of Henry C. Richman, clothing manufacturer who died on February 16, today distributed $647,686 in cash and stock of the Richman Brothers Company to 48 charitable, educational, civic and religious institutions throughout the United States. Henry C. Richman was associated with his brothers, Nathan G. and Charles L., in the Richman Brothers Company, which was established in Cleveland by their father in 1879.

EMERY TO LEAD BROWN ELEVEN

Providence, R. I., Dec. 7—Donald M. Emery, center, has been elected to lead the Brown football eleven for the 1935 season. Emery, a native of Marshfield, Mass., was unanimously elected at a meeting of th lettermen.

He is the first lineman to gain the captaincy since 1931 when Paul Mackesey, a tackle, was the Brown leader.

Terriers Release Aquatic Schedule

Boston University's varsity swimming team will compete in seven dual meets and the New England Intercollegiates this coming tank season.

The schedule is: Jan. 5, M. I. T. at home; Jan. 9, Harvard at Cambridge; Jan. 12, Coast Guard at New London, Conn.; Feb. 9, Rowdoin at home; Feb. 16, W. P. I. at Worcester; Feb. 23, Connecticut State at home; March 9, Brown at Providence; March 15-16, New England Intercollegiates at Wesleyan.

Cardinals Drill at Forward Passes

Stanford University, Cal., Dec. 7 (AP)—With three aces still on their sidelines, the Stanford Cardinals will finish the first week of training today for their New Year's Day battle with Alabama at Pasadena.

The boys are a bit peeved at reports from the east they will be lucky to score against the "Bamas" and are showing it in practice.

Most of the shifty plays being taught the squad are in the aerial department, indicating the famed Stanford defense will not depend entirely on power plays and deception as they have done all this season.

Tech Co-captain Injures Thumb

Co-Captain Edward Gaughan of the M. I. T. boxing team has suffered a severe thumb epnain which may force the star 155 pound fighter to remain out of the sparring matches with Harvard next week.

If Gaughan does not don the gloves, Elmer Wirta, promising sophomore, will be the Beaver hope. The latter starred last year with the freshmen.

Stalin's Order to U. S. Communists

"The American Communist Party must be improved and Bolshevised. For that end we must work in order to forge real revolutionary cadres and a real revolutionary leadership of the proletariat, capable of leading the many millions of the American working class toward the revolutionary class struggles."

Stalin, in address May 6, 1929.

2000 Federal Police!

Department of Justice Needs Force Ample to Fight Crime

THE Department of Justice in its relentless pursuit of notorious desperadoes is doing something more than making a creditable record in its crusade against major crime—and that "something more" is of the utmost importance to the American people.

The law of the land is receiving vindication. It has been sorely needed.

For a long time the public stood dismayed at the ineffectiveness of police in the presence of bold and organized crime.

Too often the suspicion has been confirmed and justified that local, and particularly municipal, police were "wired"—as the phrase is—by the underworld, and that criminals were operating under the protection of the very forces upon which society relies for their punishment and repression.

The belief was widely held that crime had the upper hand in the United States.

THIS explains the rapid spread of the demand for a national police force on the Scotland Yard model, to present at least a sincere and determined resistance to crime.

The answer to this demand has not been a formal answer, but one which is being evolved by the dogged persistence of the Department of Justice under the able direction of Attorney-General Cummings and his intelligent and fearless Federal agents.

The Department of Justice has just made a modest request that its staff for crime detection be increased by the addition of two hundred men.

We should say the request is FAR TOO MODEST.

TWO THOUSAND MEN—not two hundred—an average of about forty for each one of the forty-eight States—are by no means too many to be placed at the service of so earnest and efficient a branch of the Government as the Department of Justice.

Congress will wholly misinterpret the feeling of the nation if it haggles at the appropriations or hesitates in its duty of giving the Division of Investigation MORE MEN.

Honors by Statues

Mr. Mead Offers a Good Idea

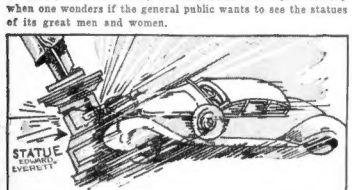
Edwin D. Mead suggests that there be erected in Boston two monumental groups of statues.

One would honor the illustrious Bostonians who, in the years prior to 1775, prepared the country for the coming of liberty.

The other would honor the group who did so much against slavery.

The plan, praiseworthy in itself, meets with objections only when one wonders if the general public wants to see the statues of its great men and women.



Mev.

We recall the displacement of the statue of Samuel Adams in Adams square, to make way for traffic.

Only recently vandals mutilated the statue of Hannah Dustin in Haverhill.

And the statue of Edward Everett was removed from Edward Everett square after it had been at least twice bowled over by automobile drivers.

Nevertheless, with Mr. Mead, we WOULD like to see due honors paid to the memory of those who helped make Boston and the rest of the nation great.

The New and the Old

Beacon Hill Change Important

Henry H. Pierce is to succeed Arthur Guy as Massachusetts Bank Commissioner. One of the key positions of the Commonwealth.

It is with a feeling of satisfaction that bank depositors view the record of the retiring commissioner. And with a feeling of security that they view the advent of a practical bank man to that important office.

For Arthur Guy, well-wishers confidently predict a successful career in his new Worcester banking post.

For Henry H. Pierce they ask a less troubled term and calmer sailing than prevailed during the last years of his predecessor's term of office.

'Who's Who' at Cards

New Game Shows Up Individuals

J. Leonard Replogle, the steel magnate, is sponsoring a new variation of bridge. It is known as "Towie."

"Towie's" advantage lies in eliminating post-mortem disputes over bids.

In "Towie" every player is "on his own" in filling a contract.

Mr. Replogle's game is unlikely to be popular with the sort of husband that habitually blames his wife all the way home from the card party.

POST NO FOREIGN BILLS!

By Nelson Harding

Tear down all the propaganda,
Rip off the unwelcome "isms,"
The unwanted foreign theories
That have no place in our country. .

Uncle Sam, aroused and angered
By this impudent invasion,
Clears the map for just one "ism";
There's but one that he will stand for.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson

My friend, the Employment Manager, doesn't give Modern Youth a very big batting average. Admits they're smart, lively hustlers if they want to be. But that's the point. They don't wanna. They'd rather play. "Parties" that, says he, is the Big Idea in their minds. As for the job, it's just an unpleasant means to an end.

Was he fair to the kids? We printed his opinion—waited to hear the youngsters' comeback. And did—plenty! Why didn't they cut out the playlines and take life seriously? This, says a typical letter, is why—

"Why should we plug, give up our good times, plan for the future? WE'VE LEARNED THE BITTER TRUTH THAT THERE IS NO TOMORROW!

WHAT HAPPENED?

"We didn't start out to be playboys. We, too, had high hopes and were willing to work hard, endure monotony and privation. But what is happening? Look all around. Everywhere you see the cold-blooded monster of capitalism squeezing the blood out of young and old alike—then casting their empty husks aside.

"What happened to our fathers, who gave their best to secure comfort and safety in their old age. Has industry kept faith with them? SHE HAS NOT!

"She has thrown them out on their ears without five minutes' notice as soon as someone came along who'd do the work ALMOST as well for less money. Why, then, should WE slave like dogs with a prospect like that ahead?

"It's all very well for you people of the older generation to talk about saving. Life was very simple when you were young. There was little you could spend your money on. But nowadays everything costs CASH, and lots of it. By the time we cover our actual expenses we have hardly a cent left—only a feeling of awful hopelessness. No wonder we play. We have to forget it somehow. We'll go crazy if we don't.

"Grasp things quickly? You bet we do. It doesn't take us years to figure out that IT ISN'T THE HARD-WORKING PLUGGER WHO GETS AHEAD . . . IT'S THE CHISELER, THE GUY WHO CAN BUY HIS WAY INTO A JOB OR WHO KNOWS SOMEBODY WITH A PULL.

"Show me ONE business house that is fair with its employes and I'll show you 50 that are NOT. If Industry would keep faith with us, we'd keep faith with it. But until it does—we refuse to join the chain gang.

"One of the Youngsters.

Hot stuff, lad—and a grand alibi for being sorry for yourself! But, fortunately, only about 10 per cent true. I'm making no defense of our present industrial mess. Nor am I denying that many corporations gave their employes a dirty deal. BUT THAT'S NO EXCUSE FOR GIVING YOURSELF AN EVEN DIRTIER ONE. And it's the deal you GIVE YOURSELF—not the deal the other fellow hands you—that we're discussing.

No one blames you for not having a job. But is that any reason why you shouldn't have SELF-RESPECT? Is that any reason why you shouldn't have FAITH and PRIDE in this country you are about to inherit—and a FIGHTING EAGERNESS to make a better job of it than we have done?

I'm for your generation a million, and most of my croaking contemporaries give me a pain in the neck. But you can become disheartening with self-pity at twenty as well as at eighty—and a lot of you brats are certainly headed that way.

ONE GRAND PICNIC

According to you, life was just one grand picnic until you came along. Phooey! We had just as many chances to make fools of ourselves as you have, kid. And there was—though you won't admit it—just as much uncertainty about the future. But we took that chance, too.

For we knew that a future doesn't merely mean Cash and Position. It consists of far richer invisible assets which a man accumulates through years of gallant struggle. Bank breaks may wipe out your dollars. Depressions may wreck your job. BUT NOTHING ON EARTH CAN TAKE CHARACTER FROM YOU. IF YOU'VE HAD THE GUMPTION TO ACCUMULATE IT.

But it's a cinch you won't accumulate it sucking highballs and sobbing over your wrongs.

That's MY advice to you, baby. Now it's YOUR turn.

WRITES ABOUT

How a Dog Sees Life

The moment I entered the house I knew that something was wrong. Noodle gave me a stony stare and continued to read his newspaper. You will hardly believe it but this queer animal can read. And he picked it up by himself, too.

But tonight something was wrong and I knew it the moment I entered the house. Now Noodle, for your benefit, is a very tiny dachshund who makes himself useful around the place by retrieving lost collar-buttons from underneath radiators and bookcases.

He is eight years old, weighs four pounds (before dinner, and double that after) and he is a direct descendant of the original pair of dachshunds Noah took on board just before the flood.

The family was knighted in the days of Charlemagne. It was quite a messalliance when an Alpenmurx von Alpenberge came to live with a mere van Loon. But times being what they are, the Alpenmurxs decided to accept the new conditions like the Romanovs and Gleichbergs. "Beggars cannot be choosers," they answered and added, "Where is the party, please?"

Now let us inquire into the cause of that canine despondency.

"Noodle," I said, for we call him that for short because he is so long, "what is the matter?"

"Well, boss," he answered, for ever since he met Archie once underneath the radio he calls me boss, "it is this way. I got a letter today."

"Any bad news from the children?"

"No, they are doing alright. But I got a letter from Madame de Pekin."

I looked slightly mystified. "You must remember her," the dachshund said, "we met her in Paris. She was the Pekinese that belonged to the Princess Garniturskia, who escaped from the Bolsheviks disguised as a barrel of old clothes. She and I used to meet every day in the garden of the Luxemburg and afterwards we wrote to each other occasionally. And I told her all about the indignities I suffered when I came to this country."

We happened to arrive on the same ship with a number of highfalutin' titles that were exceedingly doubtful, but this entire assortment of phoney dukes and princes got past the passport officials without any difficulties at all, while poor Alpenmurx von Alpenberge, as honest a dog as ever begged for a bone, had been forced to submit to very thorough-going investigation.

Ever since, by some queer alchemy of the soul, he has hated these fellow-passengers, for you know how funny dogs can be about little insignificant details.

Whenever one of the candidates for matrimonial advancement made good (and that was all they were after) Noodle used to read the social columns just for the sake of getting up a sound hate. Finally we used to hide the Sunday papers from him, but then he used to fish them out of the neighbor's garbage can and we were just as badly off as before.

And then, one final Sunday, there were pictures in all the papers of a dinner party that was widely broadcasted to have cost a cool quarter of a million of francs. Nor had it been given to honor the great and good of this earth, who undoubtedly would have refused to attend.

It had been merely intended as another gesture and in the general direction of "the poor be damned." It had been a manifestation of that sense of conspicuous waste which all through history has been an indication that a certain form of society is about to collapse. And finally, considering the present state of unrest, it had been in the worst possible taste.

I shall be very careful not to let my dog see any of the papers during the next few days. I want him to go on having just a little respect for the human race.

Human Side of the News

Stories of Various Ghosts

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Both amateur and professional ghosts seem to prefer either New York's Brooklyn or Greenwich Village for residential sites.

While, of course, an elevator strike wouldn't bother a ghost, it is obvious that haunting a 75-story sky-scraper would require a pretty big staff, and so it appears that the spooks settle down in the little old houses, any one of which can be covered nicely by one ghost, with perhaps one assistant, with Saturday off.

Newspaper friends tell me this story of the Astoria gold ghost stirred up more public excitement than any of the major thaumaturgy of recent years.

STRING OF SUICIDES

Many a fiction writer surely has dipped it for plot material. The headless ghost of Lanzer's old brewery was one of the most distinguished and hard working of wraiths in these parts.

Frank Lanzer, kindly and "gemuetlich" German, with nothing sinister about him, built the brewery in 1856 and opened up a nice beer garden. There was a happy songfest, and one of the merriest of the celebrants, a German count, wandered out under the cherry trees. They found him dead, with both wrists slashed.

Lanzer was found with a bullet in his brain. A workman, Fred Hosten, blew his head off. Charles Lanzer, brother of Frank, fell into an ice vault and was killed. There were other suicides, an appalling list of tragedies. The brewery stood at Liberty and Georgia avenues in Brooklyn; it fell into ruin.

And then the mad rush of ghost stories—the headless apparition flitting from window to window. The women would not guard the property. Burghers gave it a wide berth, day or night. In 1885, Gottfried Piel bought the property, exorcised the ghost with a few rough German gutterals, rebuilt the place and started brewing. The ghost never came back for his head.

There is an old, made-over house on St. Luke's place, and it happened that successively, three different tenants of a certain apartment had been driven out by ghosts.

None of these tenants knew the other. Their stories came to me separately. All this was before June 6, 1931, an important date in this narrative. On that day a beautiful, vivacious girl was either murdered or committed suicide, her body washed ashore in Long Island waters.

She had gone to her death—never explained—from that chamber of the weird, ectoplasmic light, in St. Luke's place—the chamber from which others had fled because of a breath of hovering death. On St. Luke's place apartment had been the Faithful family home.

THE WHITE WOMAN

Then there was the White Woman of 13 Greenwich street. It was a grand old house, with one beautiful daughter, in love with a ship officer sailing the seas of the Orient. One night, as the family sat by the fire, there came a message that he had been drowned. The girl walked upstairs and hanged herself.

Mev.

This ghost manifestation again was in the form of an unearthly light.

There was the ghost of old Widow Haight, at 311 West 34th street, and the ghost of the old General Grant home—hundreds of them, in fact, and mostly in Greenwich Village.

Maiden Lane had a terrific spectre, a ghoulish shrieking thing called "The Screeching Woman." One night it chased a broker a quarter of a mile, and he was home for weeks with a nervous breakdown.

An old British captain was menaced by the ghost, leaping down on him with horrendous shrieks. The old captain had a stout stick. He swung on the ghost. The stick landed with a cold solid thump on the ghost's ribs.

Then the captain gave the yelling spook a sound whacking and yanked off the sheet. It was a young clerk aiming himself by frightening home-faring brokers, after their evening at McDonough's old gin mill.

Idols of the Matinees

By Winifred Black

Winifred Black

So they gave you a fine funeral with plenty of flowers down in Hollywood, did they, Lou Tellegen?

Well, what more could you ask of life? You who were the matinee idol of a million beautiful women.

You, who thrilled Paris, set New York aflame and raged through the continent of America like a prairie fire.

It was a dreadful death you had, poor man and sad days must have gone before it, but you didn't know what you were doing. It is easy to see that, and now you are not poor and ill and forgotten and alone any more.

What strange creatures we mortals are anyhow!

"Ten and one years of joyous life, ten years of love and success and fame and fervent admiration, and I'll let the rest of the years slip by in peace and tranquil retirement."

GLAMOROUS FIGURES

Oh, it's all right to say that, and most people mean it when they say it—but when the ten years are up, then comes the cruel creditor, Life, and demands the final payment of the debt.

And somehow do one ever seems to be quite ready to pay it.

Tomorrow, next week, next year—but not now. Oh, no! Not yet!

And the more we have, the more we want. We never seem to be able to say cheerfully:

"I've had a gorgeous life. Now I'll sit down in the quiet and think it all over."

What a strange and brilliant galaxy it is! The procession of the matinee idol.

Herbert Kelsey rests his kind and simple soul in peace.

How the girls used to follow him up Broadway and he never looked to the right or to the left. Good old Kelsey, the very figure of what a life guardsman ought to be. And the way he glanced down at his nails every once in so often, and never went outside the door without his walking stick.

Maurice Barrymore, the wit and the fighter and the story teller—on Monday the glass of fashion and the mold of form straight from Bond street, and on Tuesday sticking his collar on with a bit of porous plaster.

THE MODERN IDOLS

Kyrie Bellew, with a face like a Greek Apollo—the girls had little altars in their rooms, and burned candles before Bellew's picture.

Sandow, the wrestler, who used to give exhibitions especially for the ladies, nice sort of chap, Sandow—a trifle too bunchy in spots, perhaps, and then there was Jim Corbett, the fighter. I saw him in the lobby of a smart London hotel doing some of his best footwork to get away from a crowd of yearning females.

These modern idols of the screen, they have their moments, too, but somehow the contact is less personal.

Well, joy be with them all. They've made a dull hour or so bright for countless millions, and they deserve all the joy and pride and, yes, they deserve the right to a little harmless vanity, too.

Here's luck to the matinee idol, and may none of them end as tragically as poor Lou Tellegen.

THE WAY WITH TROUBLE

I saw him in a bunker and his face was flaming red,
His lips were blistered purple by the bitter things he said.
And for that little minute it was plain beyond a doubt
He'd forgotten when in trouble there's the joy of getting out!

He saw the difficulty, not the chance his skill to try;
He thought his day was ruined by the shot that went awry.
Then he raised his heavy niblick and he drove it in the sand,
And the ball came out of trouble on the distant green to land!

"Oh, boy!" that golfer shouted, as he fairly danced in glee,
"I was buried in a foot print, just as deep as I could be
And I thought my chances ended, but I gave that ball a clout.
Now I'm putting for a 'birdie'! How is that for getting out?"

In the clubhouse, proud and smiling, long he stayed to tell it o'er,
How he'd landed out of trouble on the green to get a "four";
He'd forgotten all the cursing and the temper he displayed
And was happily recounting what a great shot he had made.

That's the curious way of trouble! It is fearful viewed ahead,
When a difficulty tries us many a bitter word is said,
But when once we have it vanquished then we promptly turn about,
Glad and grateful for the trouble, for the joy of getting out.

Judge Sturtevant of Somerville recently gave a poor girl brought into his court as a vagrant a five-dollar bill. She was looking for work, but found something much rarer—justice with a very kind heart.
